Mrs. Gibson's Condition Declared "Favorable"
Jersey City, N. J., November 16. (P)—Unless she suffers a relapse Mrs. Jane Gibson, state's witness in the Hall-Mills case, will testify at Somerville Thursday, authorities at City hospital announced tonight.
Her condition was pronounced "very favorable."

Somerville, N. J., November 16.—The climax of the Hall-Mills murder trial has been arranged for Thursday morning.
At that time, Senator Alexander Simpson, the special prosecutor, will call to the witness stand Mrs. Jane Gibson, the only witness whose testimony directly accuses Mrs. Frances Stevens Hall and her brother, "Willie" and Henry Stevens, of the crime.

Meanwhile, the trial of the three defendants for the murder of Mrs. Ellen Mills, whose body with that of the Rev. Edward Wheeler Hall, was found beneath the crab apple tree at Phillips farm four years ago, stands adjourned.

Over the objections of defense counsel, the court granted the prosecutor a day's delay to give the "Pig Woman" more time to recuperate from an illness which nearly prevented altogether her appearance in the case.

Senator Simpson explained that physicians at Jersey City hospital, where Mrs. Gibson is confined, had told him she might be moved to Somerville Wednesday, but that it would be "much safer" to wait until the following day.

The state's entire case is predicated upon the truth of the "Pig Woman's" assertion that she saw the accused widow and her brothers at the scene of the double murder on the night that the couple were slain.

Collapsed in Court.
Mrs. Gibson was in court the opening day of the trial. She collapsed towards the end of the session, and was taken to Somerville hospital. The next day, Simpson demanded dramatically that the trial be moved to her bedside "before the hand of death should aid in the miscarriage of justice."

A few days later, Simpson caused Mrs. Gibson's removal to Jersey City, and was accused by the defense of "kidnaping" her.

Leading up to the "Pig Woman's" story, the prosecutor produced Tuesday two important witnesses, Mrs. Marie Lee, sister of the murdered choir singer, and Mrs. Marie Demarest, who caused a sensation when she testified that a detective employed by the accused widow had offered her a bribe to "keep her mouth shut."

A diary, kept by Dr. Hall on his trip to Maine, in 1922, containing numerous entries addressed to Mrs. Mills and telling of his affection for her, was read in court.

Diary Disappears.
This diary was found in the Mills home after the tragedy and was sold by James Mills to a newspaper for $500. A crowded court room was disappointed when its contents proved less sensational than the letters introduced by the state during the past two sessions.

Mrs. Mills' sister testified that the slain woman had told her, Dr. Hall was planning to get a divorce, and

Long School Day Proposal Banned By Board Action

Resolution To Rescind
Former Action Adding
One Hour to School Gets Unanimous Vote.

BOARD MOVE SEEN AS END OF FIGHT

Sutton Recedes From Former Position and Recommends Rescind-
ing of Plan.

The Atlanta board of education at its adjourned session Tuesday afternoon definitely banned the proposal to add an hour to the school day of Atlanta. This was done on recommendation of Superintendent of Schools Willis A. Sutton, and by passage of a resolution offered by Commissioner William C. Slate, of the second ward.

Action of the board closes, so far as the parent-teacher organizations are concerned, a fight led by them and The Constitution to prevent the board from placing the extended day program in effect in all grades from the fourth grade up. Mrs. H. A. Provano, one of the leaders in the campaign against the proposal, stated that she was satisfied with action of the board and felt that others who have been allied against the move would be satisfied.

Mr. Slate's resolution, which was adopted "without a dissenting vote, follows:

"Be it resolved by the board of education, that the action of the board of education taken at the meeting on August 27, 1926, authorizing the superintendent of schools to install at the beginning of the second semester for the year 1926-27, extended sessions of schools with a cafeteria system, etc., be and the same is hereby rescinded."

Sutton States Views.
"While I am not attempting to throttle a public hearing on the plan, I feel that if it were placed in operation with the sentiment which has been expressed against it will exist, it would defeat the very thing for which it was devised," Mr. Sutton declared. "I was laboring under a misunderstanding and thought that parent-teacher organizations throughout the city approved it."

"I am prepared, and do recommend at this time that the board rescind the plan, but I feel that it is the best thing for the Atlanta children in an educational, physical and moral way. I retain my original views on the subject but, of course, wish to comply with the wishes of those for whose benefit the schools are operated, the citizens of this city."

"If the plan is unhealthy, 28,300 out of 30,000 school children of the state of Maryland are unhealthy. They have what is known as the standard school hour, that which I recommended for Atlanta schools."

"It would keep 13,000 white children from school because of the standard hour, and it would keep 15,000 colored children from school because of the standard hour. I am not recommending a standard hour for Georgia public schools attend for 6 hours a day," Mr. Sutton continued.

Reasons for Action.
"I am prompted to make this recommendation because bond funds are tied up and cannot be obtained for several months, and we couldn't put the system in operation at this time if everybody wanted it. There are certain improvements which we must have before we could hope to place it in operation."

"We couldn't establish the experimental laboratory as suggested by the pediatric section of the Fulton County Medical association because parents of students where we put the proposal in operation would feel that their children were being discriminated against and possibly being subjected to physical harm. Fire schools, despite this, however, have asked that it be tried at their schools."

Mr. Slate's rescinding resolution was seconded by Dr. Fred Morris, commissioner from the first.

Mrs. Z. V. Peterson, member of the board from the eleventh ward explained that she voted to rescind only because Mr. Sutton recommended it.

STORM LASHES COAST CITIES; DAMAGE HEAVY

Thrilling Rescues at Sea
Prove One Feature of Great Gale Which Sweeps Atlantic.

DEATHS REPORTED IN NEW YORK CITY

In Baltimore Firemen
Are Called To Rescue
Marooned Families—
Blizzard Hits West.

New York, November 16.—Sweeping inland at the rate of 70 miles an hour, a severe windstorm lashed the Atlantic coast Tuesday from New York to Virginia.

As the gale moved westward toward the Great Lakes, its velocity diminished, but several coast cities reported heavy damage and thrilling rescues at sea as a result of the disturbances.

The United States weather bureau at Washington said the storm over the eastern part of the country was a part of the general tropical disturbance reported Monday off the coast of Yucatan.

Crew of Tug Saved.
Three miles off the coast of Atlantic City, coast guard sailors watching for rum runners risked their lives to rescue the captain and 13 sailors of the Thomas Tracy, an ocean-going tug, which had grounded on a bar when high winds began churning up the sea.

In the Delaware river at Philadelphia the gale whipped craft of all kinds off their courses, caused a steamship collision and brought shipping to a standstill. The eastern part of the state reported interruption of wire communications and highway traffic was stopped by the blinding rain which accompanied the wind.

In New York city pedestrians and automobiles fairly crawled through the streets during the height of the storm. Brooklyn reported one death.

Margaret Paxiro, 32, was blown off a fourth-story fire escape and dashed to death in the back yard of an apartment building.

Another death was reported in the Metropolitan area when Victor Schultz, 15, was electrocuted by a live wire which had been blown down by the wind.

Rum Chaser Ashore.
From Provincetown, Mass., came word that the U. S. S. Morrell, the mother ship of the rum chasers operating off the Massachusetts coast, had been driven ashore by the high wind. Fifty men are aboard the ship, which is being pounded by the heavy seas.

Crossing the Hudson river into New Jersey the storm halted ferryboats, forcing hundreds of New Jersey commuters to wait hours before they could obtain safe transportation home. Passengers on the ferryboat Tottenville plying between Staten Island and Perth Amboy were scrambled ashore through the cabin windows.

Twenty-five workmen, warned by a preliminary rumbling, escaped a few minutes before the wind blew down a 150-foot wall on the site of the new Mayfair theater in Aubury Park, New Jersey.

Baltimore, Md., and Harrisburg, Pa., reported treacherous floods had followed in the wake of the storm in those regions.

Firemen Rescue Families.
At Baltimore firemen were called to rescue families marooned in the second stories of their homes in two sections of the city where Herring Run had overflowed its banks. Five passenger buses operating between Baltimore and Philadelphia were marooned when water swept over the main highway. Small bridges, railroad tracks and pole lines were carried away by the high water on the outskirts of Baltimore and firemen were kept busy pumping out basements.

In the Harrisburg area, from York south to Shenandoah and Ashland in the heart of the anthracite coal region, torrential rains had been falling 24 hours. Traffic on the Lehigh Valley

ASSOCIATED SECTIONS TO DISCUSS NEW METHODS AND APPROVED TREAT- MENTS FOR DISEASES.

Meetings of associated sections for discussion of new methods and discoveries in treatment of mankind's thousand and one ailments today will feature sessions of the Southern Medical association, now in 20th annual convention at the auditorium.

Hear Speakers.

Dr. Ralph N. Greene arrived Tuesday by airplane from Jacksonville to attend the convention.

Dr. Greene, who is to speak today at a meeting of the section on neurology and psychiatry, came to Atlanta on the air mail plane, and is stopping at the Athletic club. He was one of the first flight surgeons of the army during the war, and is an authority on the medical side of flying, having studied extensively on the illnesses peculiar to aviators.

Don't that the newly-announced "Glover cancer anti-toxin" is really effective in the cure of cancer was expressed Tuesday by members of the association in commenting on the discovery. The probable reason for the apparent success of the "cancer anti-toxin" is that the cases have not been correctly diagnosed, one physician said.

"The presence of cancer cannot be told without examining the diseased cells themselves, which requires an operation, and the anti-toxin advocates do operate upon their subjects," the physician said.

Wednesday Clinics.
Private clinics will be held today at the Good Samaritan clinic, 43 West North avenue, by Drs. Lewis F. Barker, of Johns Hopkins, and Dr. William Engelback, of the medical department of Washington university. Cases will be examined by the two physicians.

Sigma chapter of Chi Psi fraternity will be host at 6:30 o'clock tonight at the Henry Grady hotel to visiting anti-toxin brothers. Dr. C. C. Bass, president of the medical association, and others will speak.

Conventions of the Southern States Association of Railway surgeons in Taft hall, the national malaria committee at the First Baptist church and the Southern Association of Anesthetists at the Henry Grady hotel, will open today in connection with the convention of the parent body.

Laborites Tell Lady Astor To "Shut Mouth and Listen"

ADVISED TO HAVE "MANNERS AND SENSE"

London, November 16.—Viscountess Astor was again the center of a series of sharp verbal exchanges in the house of commons tonight, coming into altercation with Miss Ellen C. Wilkinson, George Lansbury, George Buchanan and other laborites.

The house was discussing relief of the unemployed, when Lady Astor challenged some remark by Miss Wilkinson, who tartly replied that the speaker was putting words in her mouth she had no intention of using.

The breeze had hardly died down when the viscountess interrupted Mr. Lansbury, who replied caustically: "The noble lady would be very much more respected if she would learn to hold her tongue."

Amid laughter the chairman reproved Mr. Lansbury for making an improper remark, and the member retorted by asking the chairman to invite the noble lady to hold her tongue.

For this he received further reproof from the chairman.

Presently George Buchanan, who represents Glasgow, was observing that the people in that city were starving for lack of an adequate poor law for their relief, when Lady Astor challenged him to give names.

Mr. Buchanan offered to take her to Glasgow to see for herself.

This led to further recriminations, Mr. Buchanan snapping back to another demand that he should answer her question: "I will answer if you shut your mouth and listen. You might at least try to have some manners and sense. You can't stand the truth."

Mr. Buchanan later remarked: "What I object to is the noble lady not being able to take her medicine. She should remember she is not dealing with her horses at Newmarket."

JURORS TO HEAR FIRST WITNESSES ON STAND TODAY

INDICTMENT CHARGING FRAUD IN LOCAL BANK OP- ERATION IS FIRST OF 18 AGAINST BANKER.

5 JURY PANELS
ARE EXHAUSTED

NEW TRIAL ON MANLEY'S UNSUCCESSFUL SPECIAL IN- SANITY PLEA FILED AND SET FOR HEARING.

The trial jury empaneled and both sides announced ready, introduction of evidence in the case of W. D. Manley, Atlanta financier, who Tuesday pleaded not guilty to an indictment charging fraudulent operation of the Farmers and Traders bank, of which he was president, will begin this morning in Judge G. H. Howard's division of Fulton superior court.

The last obstacle to trial of Manley on this indictment—the first called of 18 pending against him—was removed Monday night when a jury in the same court denied a special insanity plea filed in the defendant's behalf. This was the second time since the crash of Manley's affairs that he has been adjudged sane.

Five panels were used in selection of the Manley jury. Out of this number of prospective jurors 27 were excluded as "causes," having expressed themselves as being biased or prejudiced, having expressed an opinion or being otherwise disqualified. Defense counsel took ten strikes and the state used seven. Selection of the jury began at 9 o'clock Tuesday morning and was concluded at 3 o'clock in the afternoon, when upon petition of state's counsel and hearty agreement of defense Judge Howard recessed court until this morning.

List of Jurors.
The jurors are:
H. S. Wade, plumber, 9 Hope street.
George Greenlee, business man, 1751 South Gordon street.
Edwin C. Brown, florist, 333 Little street.

Women Read Advertisements And Do the Buying

The retail buying factor is the home purchasing agent—the woman of the home. She disburses the greatest budget in the country.

However great a novice she may be at purchasing when she marries, a woman soon learns to buy economically and with judgment.

Advertisement reading is one of the greatest helps, and as she has more time to read in the morning, she naturally selects the morning paper.

That is one reason why The Constitution goes into more homes in Atlanta and suburbs every day than any other Atlanta newspaper.

Advertising in The Constitution Pays

Committee Authorized To

and Take Steps To Save Industry.

Macon, Ga., November 16.—(P)—All interests figuring in Georgia's annual peach deal will be represented on a general committee that was authorized by a mass meeting of growers and others here today, to work out regulations for the successful and profitable operation of that industry in the near future.

The general committee, to be named later, was directed to study the needs of the peach growers, in improving the quality of their product and in reducing the production and to study marketing methods.

Subcommittees, if necessary, will be appointed to take up particular questions. One of these will be an appeal to the state legislature to enact legislation for the regulation of standards and shipments so that inferior fruit will be kept off the market.

The action at today's mass meeting followed a presentation of a crisis in the peach industry, in which he referred to a probable production of 18,000 to 25,000 cars of fruit next

Queen Marie Goes Shopping Buys Fine Fur Coats in Chicago Shops

Chicago, Ill., November 16.—(P)—Alert American shop girls and saleswomen took Marie, queen of Rumania, into two today and before she left a large department store she had bought five fur coats, with others to be sent to her suite for inspection.

The sight of the queen mingling in a shoppers' throng developed a crowd of curious persons who heard that Marie was doing her Christmas shopping. And Marie did not look at the price tags on various other articles she selected.

A leather overnight case, with enamel fittings, caught her eye and it was sent along to her hotel. French dresses were examined but no purchases were made. The overnight case was priced at $700.

Passing through the gift section Marie suddenly stopped and, addressing a salesgirl, said: "I would like to see that pretty bottle. It would look very pretty in a room."

The "pretty bottle" was a carafe of green and brown enamel, and it may find its way into the collection of King Ferdinand.

FOUR MURDERERS TO PAY PENALTY ON SAME DAY

Frankfort, Ky., November 16.—(AP)—Governor Fields today set Friday, December 17, as time for execution of four murderers, Roger Brannon, Raymond C. Davis, Lexington, and Sam "Smoky" Harris, Christian county, negro, and Robert Connard, Letcher county negro.

Brannon and Davis were convicted of the murder of William Nelson Fant who was killed the day after Christmas, last year, while resisting the two men who attempted to hold up and rob a group of men in Lexington. Davis admitted he was one of the bandits. Brannon denied throughout that he was even in the building, but his sentence was affirmed by the court of appeals.

Harris killed his wife and threw her in the river. Connard killed another negro. Their sentences were affirmed by the appellate court.

Dry Head Resigns.

Washington, November 16.—(AP)—Alroy S. Phillips, prohibition administrator for Missouri and Kansas, resigned today, effective at once.

Prohis Discuss Plans to Fight Wet President

Washington, November 16.—Anti-Saloon league leaders met here today to consider plans to thwart expected efforts by wets to nominate a sympathetic candidate for president.

The movement to nominate a wet candidate for the presidency and to insert a wet plank in the national party platform was viewed as a challenge thrown down to the dry majority by a small but highly organized minority, the national executive committee of the Anti-Saloon league announced after its session Tuesday.

"Plans to meet that challenge were discussed."

After canvassing results of the recent election, the committee declared that the returns gave positive evidence of popular support for the eighteenth amendment in election of a large majority of senators and congressmen favorable to the maintenance and enforcement of the prohibition law, in victory of dry governors, legislators and other state officers over their wet opponents.

The wet vote in the referendum was smaller than on similar proposals at previous elections, the drys said. "Nevertheless," it was added, "the size of the vote cast was taken to indicate necessity for a continued and vigorous educational program and organization work to reach the indifferent voter to defeat the highly organized wet minority."

The committee urged congress to approve General Andrews' dry enforcement bill.

Plot To Destroy Home Is Charged To Playwrights

Memphis, Tenn., November 16.—(AP)—A conspiracy, fostered by "some authors, playwrights, publishers and movie producers," to tear down the American home is seen by Paul G. Preston, minister of the Oak Cliff Christian church, Dallas, who in an address tonight before the international convention of Disciples of Christ challenged the church to be stir itself in defense of the marriage relationship.

"The magnify the license of the licentious," the Dallas pastor declared of the "conspirators." "They paint lurid lies upon the minds of youth and label them truth. For them no flame ever burns upon the altar of human hearts save that which is kindled in selfishness and fed by lust."

Proclaiming that Jesus believed in the sanctity of the marriage tie, Mr. Preston called on the brotherhood to expose "this evil," and strengthen the foundations of the home, which he called the basic institution of organized society. He derided the activities of "divorce mills."

Mr. Preston, picturing the history and growth of the church in America, praised its record of progress and achievement. He cautioned against any tendency to "play down your arms and quit the field."

AL SMITH PLANS SPEECH AT DINNER IN SOUTH CAROLINA

While Governor Smith is coming to Charleston as the guest of the Hibernian society, a big public meeting is being planned at which it is expected he will speak. This will be Governor Smith's first visit to Charleston and his address here will be his first in South Carolina.

STUDEBAKER CO. WILL BUY BALE FOR EACH SALE

South Bend, Ind., November 16.—(AP)—A. R. Erskine, president of the Studebaker corporation, today announced that for every car sold during November and December in the cotton belt, Studebaker will purchase a bale of cotton, at market prices and store it for at least six months. Advertisements will be published throughout the south tomorrow in which this plan will be announced.

Miami Beach, Fla., November 16.—Apartment house rentals have been decreased 40 per cent here through an agreement made known Tuesday by the Miami Beach Apartment House Owners' association.

Bomb in Candy Box Sent Court Official Fails

Chicago, November 16.—(AP)—An attempt by a crank to kill Dr. William Hickson, municipal court psychiatrist, failed today when a bomb mailed to him failed to explode when he opened the candy box in which it was contained in his offices in the city hall.

The bomb consisted of three sticks of dynamite equipped with percussion caps which were placed under a layer of chocolates. The package was delivered last night at the offices of Judge Harry Olson, chief justice of the municipal court, and had been tossed carelessly about an ante-room in his office during the day.

MISS MACKAILL TO WED GERMAN DIRECTOR TODAY

New York, November 16.—(AP)—Dorothy Mackaill, English motion picture actress, is to marry Lothar Mendes, German film director tomorrow.

They became engaged last night and Miss Mackaill immediately telephoned to a friend to accompany them to a ceremony of a justice of the peace tomorrow. They met last September.

Miss Mackaill came to the United States in 1920, bribed an office boy to accompany her to the United States and got a place in the chorus of the Folies. Then she entered the movies. Mendes came to the United States last summer to direct for Robert Kane.

DOMINIONS ADOPT SELECTIVE PLAN OF IMMIGRATION

London, November 16.—(AP)—The American principle of limiting and carefully scrutinizing its immigrants from Europe has been carried out in a comprehensive plan adopted by the imperial conference for distribution of the empire's population, mainly in Canada, Australia and New Zealand.

By this plan, the Dominions won somewhat of a victory over the mother country by maintaining their right to take the immigrants they want instead of those which England would wish to send overseas.

Cincinnati To Have Passenger Station Costing $27,000,000

Cincinnati, Ohio, November 16.—(AP)—A new union passenger station, costing more than $27,000,000, will have Lincoln park in the west end of this city, it was announced officially tonight by R. C. Barnard, superintendent of the Pennsylvania railroad.

The cost will be shared in equal parts by the Pennsylvania, Big Four, Baltimore & Ohio, Louisville & Nashville, Chesapeake & Ohio, Norfolk & Western and the Southern railways.

Mr. Barnard's statement followed an address earlier in the day by Ivy L. Lee, New York, director of public relations, Pennsylvania system, who said the terminal would be completed within five years.

Mrs. Belmont Refuses To Discuss Annulment Of Daughter's Wedding

New York, November 16.—(AP)—Characterizing the annulment by the Roman rota of her daughter, Consuelo Vanderbilt's marriage to the Duke of Marlborough as "merely one of those adjustments that come into the lives of people," Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont today told a reporter she did not think she could make any comment. Pressed for some statement on a London report that annulment had been granted on the ground that she had forced her daughter into the marriage, Mrs. Belmont asked to be excused. She was in the midst of packing, preparatory to returning to her chateau at Eze-Sur-Mer, France.

"And," she said, "I am a very busy woman."

Pensions for Confederate veterans and widows of veterans for the last quarter of 1926 will be paid at the office of Ordinary Thomas H. Jeffries at the courthouse today. It was announced Tuesday by Bonnell H. Stone, of the state forestry board.

The state pension department sent out checks amounting to $461,000 Tuesday to the ordinaries of the counties of the state to pay the fourth quarter pensions. With approximately $2,000,000 paid in back pensions and with pensions for this year totaling about $2,000,000 the total paid the veterans and widows in 1926 amounts to nearly $8,000,000, according to Colonel John W. Clark, state pension commissioner.

Money to pay the past due pensions was obtained through the sale of deferred Western and Atlantic warrants which was authorized by the legislature. About 10,000 names appear on the pension rolls of which about 5,000 are Confederate veterans and the remaining number widows of veterans.

WOMEN'S AID SOUGHT IN ARBOR DAY PLANS

Women's organizations throughout Georgia will be asked to cooperate in observing Arbor day December 3 by planting trees of various kinds, it was announced Tuesday by Bonnell H. Stone, of the state forestry board.

Mr. Stone declared that all women's organizations are urged to participate in this program. The Dalton Woman's club recently held tree-planting exercises in which trees were planted in honor of Governor Clifford Walker, former Congressman Gordon Lee and Robert Loveman, Georgia poet. The Dalton exercises were held under direction of Mrs. M. E. Judd, of Dalton, one of the leaders in the movement to preserve the state forests.

Because of the service Mrs. Judd has rendered it is probable that she will be named as a member of the state forestry board to succeed Miss Alice Baxter, of Atlanta, it is said. Under the law a representative of a woman's organization is named for a one-year term on the board. Miss Baxter was the first appointed and her term has expired.

Mr. Stone said it would be the policy of the department to seek the appointment of a woman member from every organization in the state during the course of the next few years. It is planned to rotate the appointments from year to year so that eventually every organization of women will have had a member to serve on the board.

3 Fulton Convicts Escape From Gang On Piedmont Road

Three Fulton county convicts succeeded in evading watchful Fulton county guards Tuesday morning about 11:30 o'clock on Piedmont road, near Milledgeville station and made a successful break for liberty.

Prisoners who escaped are J. S. Bankhead, serving a one-year sentence at the expiration of which he was to be held for federal authorities; Tom Hinkle, 23, of Atlanta serving a one-year sentence, and Harry Guber, 21, serving a ten-month sentence, following which he was to begin on a four-year sentence.

The convicts were members of a road gang which was at work on Piedmont road. A posse of county police and a number of county bloodhounds were sent to the scene of the escape but at a late hour Tuesday night no trace of the men had been found.

Auto Victim Better.

Marcelle Spearman, five-year-old daughter of Mrs. Nellie Spearman, Tuesday, was reported to be recovering from injuries sustained when knocked down in front of her home at Oak and Dunn streets by an automobile said to have been driven by P. D. Connolly, of No. 4 engine house.

Mrs. Spearman, who said she did not witness the accident but heard the crash from the house, added that she was told by witness that Marcelle was crossing at the corner in the proper manner when struck down. The child had been given permission to cross the street, Mrs. Spearman stated.

LANCE ASKS GUILT PLEA WITHDRAWAL

Petition for withdrawal of plea of guilt to four misdemeanor charges entered in September, 1925, was filed Tuesday morning before Judge E. D. Thomas in Fulton superior court by attorneys for Jack Lance, whose suspended sentence of 12 months was revoked Saturday at the request of Solicitor General John A. Boykin.

Lance was arrested in August, in Jacksonville, on a municipal court warrant charging murder of Bert Donaldson, criminal investigator of the solicitor's staff. Following hearing on the charge recently, the warrant was dismissed.

The petition sets out that Lance was tried in September, 1925, on four misdemeanor charges and that after pleading guilty he was fined $500 and given a sentence of 12 months, to be suspended upon payment of the fine. The charges were larceny after trust in connection with four liberty bonds, property of A. S. Cooper, of Florida; possessing obscene photographs, vagrancy and a statutory offense.

The petition avers that Lance made the plea of guilt under a misapprehension, as he was given to understand that the sentence would result in his imprisonment if he paid the fine.

Solicitor Boykin asked for revocation of the sentence on the ground that Lance had continued alleged gambling operations and presented Cobb county records to support this theory.

Hearing on the petition was set for Saturday morning. Lance is being represented by Attorneys Aldine Chambers and Eugene Dickey.

Jealousy Caused Double Killing, Farmer Asserts

Scotland, S. D., November 16.—(AP)—Walter Zwielf, 34, farmer, confessed tonight to Sheriff Koenig to the killing of two persons and the wounding of three others in a shotgun assault near here last night.

Jealousy over division of lands was the motive given for the crime. The report of the confession, made by the sheriff said:

After the crime Zwielf took poison in an attempt to end his life. He is in a hospital at Parkston, where it is believed he will recover. He was captured at his home near Parkston after authorities had sought a maniac in the wholesale assault made at the John Gross farm northwest of here last night.

Zwielf is a son-in-law of John Gross. According to his story as related by the sheriff, Zwielf believed that his father-in-law was favoring other children in the division of property.

Robert Zwielf, 20 years old, was slain as he sat playing cards at the John Gross home with several others. Mrs. John Gross, 50, and Mrs. Colompo Gross, 30, were killed. Atlanta Dentist Is Author Of Book on 'Oral Surgery'

Dr. Samuel L. Silverman, clinical professor of oral surgery at Atlanta Southern Dental college and recognized as one of the foremost figures in the dental profession in America, is the author of a book recently released by P. Binkley's Sons company, of Philadelphia, on "Principles and practice of Oral Surgery."

The book is now being used as a text in the Atlanta-Southern Dental college and also has been adopted by dental schools in England. Arrangements have been completed for translation of the work into German, and translations into other languages also are being considered.

The book is characterized by remarkable clarity of diction and profuse illustrations of practical clinical cases. Dr. Silverman's book is said to be of invaluable assistance to surgeons and physicians as well as dentists.

In the introduction, oral surgery is explained as dealing with the "management of surgical diseases, injuries and malformations of the mouth, jaws and associated parts."

In the preface of the work which the author "affectionately dedicates to his mother," it is explained that in order that the work may be of the greatest possible service, definitions, synonyms and other helpful data are included for the benefit of the elementary undergraduate, while for the practitioner detailed technique and "step-by-step" illustrations have been included.

Dr. Silverman expresses his thanks to a number who aided in assembling and preparing of material for the work, including Dr. Truman H. Brophy, dean of the world's oral surgeons, who wrote the foreword; Dr. Thomas Hinman, "who first stirred his interest in oral surgery"; Dr. L. Pierce Anthony and Dr. H. M. Boone, the latter an associate, and Mrs. O. H. Jones, head nurse, and Miss McElroy, the author's secretary.

Dr. Silverman graduated from the old Southern Dental college in 1910, which college later combined with the

Supreme Court To Decide Klan Kansas Dispute

Washington, November 16.—(AP)—The supreme court was asked today to decide a dispute between Kansas and the Ku Klux Klan.

Specifically the Ku Klux Klan of Georgia challenged the right of Kansas to require it to obtain permission "to do business" in the state.

Technical objections were raised to the service of notices by state officials upon klansmen who, it was argued, did not represent the Klan in an official capacity. It was further argued that the Klan was a "purely benevolent and eleemosynary organization having no capital stock."

The lower court held that, as a foreign corporation, the Klan could not carry on its activities in Kansas without first making application "to do business" there. The Klan insists that it is not "doing business" in the state, and attacked the constitutionality of the Kansas law which it describes as an invalid abridgment of its privileges and immunities.

Buffalo Lithia, Historic Resort In New Hands

Among the prominent visitors to Atlanta in attendance upon the convention of the Southern Medical Association is Dr. William E. Fitch, of Buffalo Lithia Springs, Virginia, but for 20 years past a prominent physician of New York city.

During the world war Dr. Fitch served with distinction in the medical reserve corps of the army, retiring from the service as a major, at the close of the war, having served as commanding officer of several of the army hospitals.

Dr. Fitch is an author of note, and an authority on the mineral waters of the United States. He has contributed various writings on the early history of north America.

He is a native of Burlington, N. C. He recently participated in the organization of a company to take over the famous old Buffalo Lithia Springs, just across the North Carolina border, in Virginia. He now makes his home there as the medical director of the corporation and will supervise the scientific and ethical end of the business.

A Historical Past.

This famous old resort is one of the most historic of the American spas, and under the new organization ample means will be put behind its development. Dr. Fitch is enthusiastic about the prospect and confidently expects this resort to attain national prominence as it did for the greater part of the past century when its waters were in use throughout the country.

The fact that Dr. Fitch has given up a lucrative practice in New York to devote his entire time to the scientific and ethical development of this historic resort indicates the nature of his confidence in its development. Buffalo Springs were discovered by Colonel William Byrd, who was appointed by the British crown as chairman of the commission to run the dividing line between the colonies of Virginia and North Carolina. The present governor of Virginia is a direct descendant.

Legend of Springs.

Colonel Byrd records in his diary that when he neared the neighborhood of the springs, his Indian guide informed him to visit the Indian "medicine spring." He related legends of cures to legions of the red men, who resorted to these springs for the curative properties in the waters. These waters were so highly revered by the red men that it was neutral ground between warring tribes, where the wounded would come to regain their health, and the aged to be relieved of their ills.

Colonel Byrd records that on September 28, 1728, when he visited this spot for the first time, on looking from the spring he saw a herd of buffalo licking the stones in the creek along the water flowing from this spring. He further states that with his flowing piece he brought down a young buffalo bull, about two years old, and they had for supper that night a rarity they had never had before—buffalo steak. Colonel Byrd says from this incident he named the spring Buffalo spring, and the creek Buffalo creek.

He further records: "We were particularly fortunate in being quartered near this Indian 'medicine' spring. Our supply of rum having given out a few days before, and as we had not time to drink but what Adam had in Paradise, it was fortunate that my tent was quartered near this spring, the water of which was cold as ice and soft as oil."

Development Begins.

The first hotel built on this area was completed in June, 1822. About 1872 Colonel Thomas F. Goode acquired this property and began to develop it, adding to the old buildings until there were sufficient accommodations for 250 summer guests. Colonel Goode spent money freely in advertising the waters to the medical profession, and for fifty years the most eminent members of the medical profession—molders of medical thought—have highly indorsed and freely prescribed the Buffalo mineral waters. Since Colonel Goode's death, some 18 years ago, no advertising of any description has been done. Sales dropped in volume, but still the waters are sold to more than 40,000 drug stores in the United States, and the best people of the south sojourn here every season.

Two years ago Dr. Fitch became interested in the Buffalo Springs property and, with several associates, a new corporation was formed, which has taken over the property. Plans are under way for the construction of a modern, up-to-date hotel and sanitarium combined, comprising 400 rooms and 400 baths, with every modern convenience, and, open throughout the year. There will also be in addition a bathing establishment of modern construction, fitted with up-to-date hydraulic equipment.

H. L. DeNoon, of Richmond, Va., and New York city, is president of the new corporation.

Dr. Fitch Well-Known.

Dr. Fitch was formerly editor of Gallard's medical journal in the city of New York, and is author of an authoritative three-volume work on "Dietotherapy." His publishers have also on the press at the present time an 800-page volume entitled "Mineral Waters of the United States and the American Spas."

This book will soon be ready for distribution and is an authoritative work on the subject, and the first one to appear in this country during the past 30 years.

The Buffalo mineral waters are natural waters, sparkling in their purity, charged with radio-active emanations, possessing diuretic and antacid lithic properties, commended for a century by the medical profession.

JURY IS SELECTED TO TRY W. D. MANLEY

until this morning at 9 o'clock. Solicitor General John A. Boykin declared that there is certain important documentary evidence which needed assembling and arriving, and that, if state's attorneys were granted the recess to accomplish this the trial would be facilitated. The solicitor explained, however, that the state was ready to proceed with the trial if the court deemed it necessary.

Unable To Be In Court.

Marion Smith, of defense counsel, seconded the solicitor's motion, declaring that neither Manley nor his wife, who is assisting in the defense, were able to be in court this afternoon. He had not asked for a recess, he said, because defense had no desire to be put in the light of delaying the case.

The defendant, whose financial affairs have been aired in the courts since the filing of an insanity plea in an ordinary court two months ago, was president of the defunct Bankers' Trust company, of Atlanta, which failed and brought down with it 83 chain banks, of which it was the parent institution. This plea, which was denied by a special insanity commission, claimed that the banker was not competent to handle his own affairs and asked for appointment of a guardian.

Following this, Manley was declared a bankrupt in federal court and receivers were appointed. Then came 18 indictments against him in Fulton superior court and one indictment carrying 20 counts in federal court.

All depositors and kinsmen of depositors in the banks were eliminated as possible jurors, and all stockholders or kinsmen of stockholders in 119 banks which contributed to a fund to employ Reuben H. Arnold, of Chicago, to employ a special counsel to prosecute Manley were stricken from the list.

When the case was called for trial Tuesday morning, the first move of defense was to file a motion for a new trial of the special insanity plea, after striking out the superseding clause which would have delayed the trial. Judge Howell set December 11 as the date for hearing on the petition.

Baker To Be Witness.

Paul J. Baker, former treasurer of the Bankers' Trust company, will be called to the stand as a witness for the state, it was learned Tuesday. Mr. Baker testified in the special insanity hearing, and it was indicated that he would be called to the stand by the state in the criminal proceedings.

Attorney for Manley have indicated that they would fight all the indictments of the state, superior court and in case of adverse verdicts, would carry the fight to the state supreme court and, if necessary, to the supreme court of the United States. Solicitor Boykin has expressed belief that a special plea of insanity would be introduced in Manley's behalf at all the trials which follow this one.

The jury was "locked up" Tuesday night. At a local theater the men who are to decide whether or not Manley is guilty as charged in the indictment occupied a special box. They were accompanied by deputies, who guard them at all times. Before dismissing them from the courtroom, Judge Howell cautioned the jurors against discussing the case among themselves and against reading the newspapers.

CITIES ON COAST
LASHED BY STORM

ley railroad was paralyzed by the bursting of coillery dams which washed out rights of way and flooded small parts of the town. In one mine in the Ashtand district three miners were entombed temporarily when water poured into the workings of their pit. They were rescued later unharmed.

The weather bureau in New York announced that while the wind velocity would diminish rapidly during the night, rain would continue for another 24 hours, later turning to snow or sleet. The prospect of freezing temperatures appeared to be the only hope for residents of the flooded districts of eastern Pennsylvania.

MANY HOMES FLOODED IN PENNSYLVANIA.

Pottsville, Pa., November 16.—(AP) With many homes flooded, highways blocked by deep water and debris, six bridges washed away and railroad traffic abandoned on the Bowman's creek branch valley at the Lehigh and on the Susquehanna and New York railroad, the Susquehanna river and the creeks in this section continued to rise tonight at the rate of a foot and a quarter an hour. Rain has been falling heavily since last night.

At Monroeton, three miles south of here, several families were forced to move from their homes and others were prepared to do so. The town was without water supply tonight, the main pipe line from the reservoir to the town having been washed out. The houses were flooded and the children were dismissed for the day. Trains on the main line of the Lehigh valley were delayed, some for hours, as a result of washouts.

A $40,000 bridge, recently built over Locoming creek on the Susquehanna river north of Williamsport, was washed away today by the raging waters of the storm-flooded creek.

Both Locoming and Loyalsock creeks reached the highest levels in their histories.

A boy was drowned at Scranton when he was dragged into the swift current of the Lackawanna river by a piece of drifted log which was picked from the stream.

GREAT BLIZZARD SWEEPING
WYOMING AND COLORADO.

Denver, Colo., November 16.—(AP) Roaring out of Montana, a blizzard today swept over Wyoming and Colorado, sending the mercury below freezing, crippling wire communication and seriously hampering traffic. The snow descended on Denver with a 30-mile wind.

Snow ranging from one to five inches marked the trail of the storm through Montana. One blizzard was raging over Wyoming late today.

SCORE OF FISHING
VESSELS DESTROYED.

Provincetown, Mass., November 16.—(AP) More than a score of fishing boats were sunk, two wharves were washed away and the U. S. S. Morrill, mother ship of the rum chasing fleet, was washed high and dry on the shore during a gale which swept into Provincetown from the south tonight.

the high tide thrown up by the gale which lashed Philadelphia Tuesday and crashed into the Italian steamer Antonio Tropovich, taking fuel at the docks. Both vessels were damaged above the waterline.

Besides causing numerous ships in the Delaware river to seek shelter behind the Delaware breakwater, the gale, reaching a velocity of 60 or 65 miles an hour, wrecked communication lines throughout the eastern part of the state.

BALTIMORE MENACED
BY FLOODS TUESDAY.

Baltimore, Md., November 16.—Floods menaced Baltimore Tuesday night following a rain and wind storm which swept the city during the late afternoon.

Streams were out of their banks and numerous families in the lower portions of the Metropolitan area were taken from second story windows of their homes in boats. Mrs. L. Anderson was marooned in her bathroom when a sudden rush of water from Jones Falls surrounded the coop. She was rescued in a rowboat by firemen.

FLOODS HAVE HALTED
MINING OPERATIONS.

Harrisburg, Pa., November 16.—Floods have halted all mining operations in the Ashtand-Shenandoah anthracite fields near here.

Water overflowing the banks of nearby streams following continuous rain for more than 24 hours cascaded into numerous mines Tuesday, driving men from their work and amazing thousands of dollars worth of machinery.

Weath-bureau reports indicated no letup in the downpour before Wednesday. Scores of families in valley mining communities scurried to higher levels where they pitched tents and prepared to spend the night above the danger line of rising streams. Freezing temperatures were predicted for Wednesday night.

NEW ENGLAND SWEEP
BY SOUTHWEST GALE.

Boston, November 16.—A heavy southwest gale was sweeping New England tonight endangering shipping along the coast and causing minor damage inland.

The windstorm struck Massachusetts towns this afternoon. Brown increased to gale proportions. Windows were broken and trees blown down in Springfield, Cambridge and other cities. One class at Harvard university was showered with broken glass as a window crashed in.

Free To Get Fine,
Williams Is Still
Gone After 4 Days

Another name was added to the police docket this afternoon, recently when Judge A. W. Callaway permitted Nolan Williams, 31, who gave as his residence a local hotel, to go and get $6 with which to pay his fine. Judge Callaway has not yet shown up at police station with the $6.00.

Williams was arrested early Friday morning by trooper L. F. Brown and five hours later was tried in recorder's court under a drunk and disorderly conduct charge. He was found guilty and a fine of $6 was assessed. Williams told Recorder Callaway that he did not have the $6 on his person but would, if permitted to go and get it. The judge permitted, but four days have now elapsed and Williams is still "gone."

HAIRDRESSERS PLAN
DECEMBER BANQUET

It was the first business meeting since the association was organized some time ago and 14 applications for membership were received, it was stated.

The first big get-together banquet of the association will be held at the regular monthly meeting in December. It was stated and a committee was appointed to plan for this event.

Officers of the association are: A. G. Scott, president; A. H. Fuller, first vice president; Mrs. M. I. Randall, second vice president; Mrs. Nellie Nix Edwards, secretary; W. T. Jones, financial secretary; A. Wiedmeyer, treasurer.

PRAYER.—Lord, Thou hast put gladness in my heart, more than in the time when their grain and new wine is increased.

FIND NEW USES.

The suggestion of William Candler, in a communication to The Constitution published Tuesday, that we should study to increase the use of cotton by increasing the demand for fabrics and cotton by-products, is a sensible one.

Recently Judge Frost, one of the most prominent members of the Chicago bar, addressed the members of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce along the same lines. He declared that engineers should be engaged to find more factory and commercial uses to which cotton may be adapted.

Few people realize perhaps that cotton is used in the manufacture of fine carriage paint. It is used in a great many articles that require a fiber, other than cloths and fabrics, and it is possible now to make a cotton substitute for silk that is as attractive in hosiery even—as the genuine article.

When we analyze the rapidly increasing cotton production in the west, and in the other cotton producing countries, we can understand why it is economically necessary to enlarge the consumptive demands by finding new sources of use.

Recently the publicity bureau of the state of Arizona, in a series of advertisements inserted in farm journals, seeking to attract land settlers, stressed the statement that in that state, in which cotton has only been cultivated a few years, expected to become the largest cotton producing state in the American cotton belt.

In other words, while we are preaching acreage reduction in the southeast, there is a state in the southwest that officially announces from the capitol building that it proposes to promote great cotton production. That is illustrative of the futility of the cotton acreage reduction campaign unless the credit sources takes the matter firmly in hand, and force the reduction in every state in the cotton belt along fair, cooperative lines.

Increase the use of cotton goods and cotton by-products, and find new trade channels into which cotton may be turned. That is sound.

DESERVED PROMOTIONS.

Of the many changes in the North Georgia conference assignments two are of especial interest to Constitution readers. Dr. Elam F. Dempsey, of Atlanta, has been doing educational board work. He goes now as presiding elder of the Oxford circuit. His "little sermons" on the editorial page of The Constitution have been most attractive and inspiring features for many months. His new assignment is a deserved promotion for there is not a more outstanding Christian gentleman in the state nor one who is more universally popular.

Another regular Constitution contributor is Dr. W. P. King, who has been transferred from the first church at Gainesville to the first church at Athens. This is also a most deserved promotion. Constitution readers will recognize in Dr. King the authorship of the weekly feature, "Things New and Old About the Bible." It is one of the most extensively read features on a similar subject published in the south.

Among the new ministers who come to Atlanta churches chief interest centers in Dr. W. L. Duren, who comes to St. Mark's from the New Orleans Rayne Memorial church, and in Dr. R. L. Russell, who comes to the Druid Hills church.

Dr. Mitchell, who has been at St. Mark's church for four years, and has made a host of loyal friends

In Atlanta, has been transferred to the Louisiana conference and will take the pastorate of the New Orleans church that Dr. Duren surrenders.

Dr. Frank Quillian, who enjoys wide popularity in Atlanta, has been transferred to the Dalton circuit as presiding elder.

Dr. Russell, who takes up Dr. Quillian's former pastorate, was originally a member of the St. Louis conference, but for several years has been home mission secretary.

Atlanta will give a cordial welcome to these ministers from other states who have been placed in two of the leading Methodist pastorates in the entire south.

THE HIGHWAY BUDGET.

The 1927 construction budget, submitted by Mr. Phillips, and adopted by the state highway board unanimously Monday, is strong in two essential features. First, the provision for connecting the paved links in two or more through-state thoroughfares. Second, the plan for a revolving fund for the purpose of financing weak counties.

Particularly pleasing is it that the budget provides for the complete paving of a through highway from the Tennessee line to the Florida line, and also for building the one missing link in the scenic route to the North Carolina line via Dahlonega and Blairsville.

A great deal of construction in all sections is provided for, and it is presumed that all of the counties that have already issued local bonds for matching state and federal funds, and in which no construction work has yet been done, will be included in the general 1927-28 building program.

In this connection we are publishing a card from M. E. Geer, prominent cotton mill operator of Douglasville, enclosing a letter he has written the state board protesting against the omission of the Bankhead highway from the budget program. There is good reason in what he says, for this highway is one of the main arteries leading into Georgia from the east.

In his budget report Mr. Phillips calls attention to the fact that the state fund for highway construction in 1927 will be augmented by the proceeds from one-cent-a-gallon tax on gasoline which has heretofore been allotted to retiring the hypothecation of the W. & A. rentals. This will give the highway construction fund next year, and thereafter, the full proceeds from a two-and-one-half-cent-a-gallon tax which should amount to $5,000,000, according to Mr. Phillips' estimate.

It will be recalled that Georgia's gasoline tax is 4 cents a gallon, but one cent a gallon is allocated to counties according to their respective state highway mileages. The other one-half-cent tax goes to the expense of inspection, the sum remaining after those expenses have been met going into the general fund.

In this connection, the next legislature should revise the law, and provide that this one-half-cent tax go also into the state highway fund. It is assumed that the big inspection force, now maintained, will be substantially reduced, and perhaps an entirely different system employed. At any rate, whether changes are made in this respect or not, it is unfair to divert any of the gasoline and other motor taxes to any purposes except that of highway construction and maintenance.

We commend the state highway board for adopting a budget system, and for its plans for road coordination. We must not overlook the law, however, that provides for the connecting of every county seat with paved highways, and whether or not this can be done in a reasonable time without a capitalization of the motor taxes, through a state bond issue to be carried and retired by such taxes, opens up two definite schools of thought, and this probably will be one of the big issues before the 1927 assembly.

MILLWORK CONVENTION.

Prominent millwork manufacturers from 11 southern states are gathered in Atlanta today. The occasion is the annual convention of the Southern Sash, Door and Millwork Manufacturers' association.

Atlanta is the headquarters of this organization with C. B. Harman, secretary-treasurer, in charge. It is doing a splendid work for construction, standardization and conservation. Mr. Harman is one of the most active men in the south in finding proper economic solutions of the forestry problems. He was instrumental, with others, in having Georgia adopt a definite forestry policy through the creation by the legislature of a state department.

A cordial welcome is extended to the delegates to this convention.

The poet speaks of "the feel in the Christmas air," but along about this time it's the "feel" for father's pocketbook.

Just From Georgia

BY FRANK L. STANTON.

Hard Lines for Mr. Turkey.
Watch out, Mister Turkey.
Don't you roost too high.
You'll forget your rooster.
If you tell us all goodby!
Lots of high-up people
A warning lesson teach.
But we'll have no Thanksgiving
If you're roosting out o' reach.

Watch out, I say—
Near the lowground stay;
We want to celebrate you
When com's Thanksgiving day!

Watch out, Mister Turkey—
Where Atlanta smiles serene:
We want to have you
Where the ax is bright and keen.
Don't forget your rooster!
Plume your wings to fly—
It ain't the fine people
That are roostin' mighty high!

Watch out, I say—
Near the lowground stay;
Or we'll never celebrate you
When comes Thanksgiving day!

The Poets and the Poem.
The poem-poets are coming to the front again, but some of 'em don't write convincingly. It is plain that they never went "poesie hunting," or passed their plates to the "poem" and "later feast in old-fashioned Georgia style. But there is hope. Experience will help!

That's What!
What keeps the world a-hummin'
Along the upward way,
Ever the spirit and the comin'
And lash it out the way!

Welcome Ones.
The cheerful philosopher of the Tifton Gazette dedicates his latest poem to the smiling fraternity, as follows:
"Some people are welcomed wherever they go. They stand in the favor of all that they know. They rank very high in the thoughts of their friends, a lot of achievements that always commend."

"The people I mean are the ones who can smile—the ones who are like all of the world's who prove that they're loyal and true and sincere, no matter what losses and troubles are near."

This world is no place for the crank or the crab, whose acts and demeanors are colored in drab; no place for the person of unworthy trend, who always is working for some self."

"And folks who are wholesome and pleasing to know, are worth being welcomed wherever they go. It's best to be cheerful and ready to smile, instead of a grouchy even part of the while."

If Autumn—as the poets say—"Sets the world on fire" today, Before the final rest-bell chime, Please heaven, we'll burn before our time!"

How They Talk!
In its Missouri, Notes the Kansas City Times has this one from the Sikeston Standard—
"If there was less hell raised in some families and more babies the community would be better off in the long run. The lack of anything to do gives women time to regulate the neighborhood, which causes unpleasantness in their relations with the line filled with white squares they would have little time to interfere."

We Can Wait.
It will be some time now before we get another line on the planet Mars from the scientific observers who have been sitting up nights with their telescopes trying to get a line on this unformed old earth. But we can wait along with the troubles we have until next time.

Coming!
Christmas, o'er the earth afar,
Comes with song and star;
With its light to children's eyes,
Dream sweet dreams in sleep;
And they'll hear, till morning beams,
Sleigh bells in their dreams.

Billville Note.
People who shout hallo! on the highway may do so because of the real thing, but not because of the violation of the Volstead law. But they're under suspicion just the same. ("This world is not a friend to grace.")

Back in 1869 this date was signalized by the opening of the Suez canal to world traffic and civilized nations cheered the completion of what then was the greatest and most momentous engineering feat in all modern history. The genius who devised and executed the creation of the great canal between the Red Sea and the Mediterranean was Count Ferdinand de Lesseps, of France. He had cherished the desire to create that "cut-off" for world shipping, to save the long and dangerous round Cape Good Hope and now he had brought it into being. The world took its hat to him!

The great canal is 104 miles long, has no locks in it, is now being deepened to 40 feet from 30 feet, and widened to 440 feet from the original 100 feet. The project through it takes about 16 hours. The cost was $127,000,000. The towns along it are Port Said on the Mediterranean, Ismailia near the mid-length and Tewfik at the Red Sea outlet and two miles from Suez, called "the cess-pool of civilization," and damned by Kipling as the wickedest town on the globe.

De Lesseps then, with the patronage of the French government, took up the project of building a ship canal across the Isthmus of Suez—a dream of many navigators, engineers and diplomats from the days of Balboa. He undertook the job, but after years of effort, the expenditure of millions of francs and the sacrifice of many thousands of lives of laborers, he was forced to suspend his labors. Like Columbus, he was accused of fraud and prosecuted as a criminal, but was vindicated, and died November 19, 1894.

President Roosevelt took up the project, induced congress to authorize its completion, obtained the canal zone from the new-born republic of Panama, and started the work that involved gigantic engineering feats and resulted in the mighty canal, 44 miles long, being opened to the world for the transit of ships between the Atlantic and Pacific oceans.

Then I returned to my typewriter and my thoughts. But before I could realize, total darkness had pulled the shades for me at my windows—and I wondered where the day had gone.

I know that some of them had gone to the heart. I have entire days framed and hung in the choicest and most sacred corners of my home. I have seen extremely discouraged and most lonely I steal away into that chamber

THE WORLD'S WINDOW

BY PIERRE VAN PAASSEN.

The Black Reichweh.
The trial of the chief offenders who exercised justice according to medieval Vehmgericht ideas in the Black Reichweh case, is filling Germany with horror. The details at the trial reveal a barbarism of the crudest sort. The men of the Black Reichweh would practice sharp-shooting at the windows of their officers when displayed. When in want of fish they would throw a hand grenade into a river and save angling. A peculiarly perverse form of loyalty to their country made them consider anybody who had once joined them, and was suspected of having Communist friends, as an enemy to be tortured until the truth could be wrested from him. Added to this are very probably theological elements in the worst of offenders against the laws of humanity and justice, betrayed in the terrible floggings, which in many cases preceded the murder by means of one of the men's clothing was literally flogged off them in strips the evidence shows.

Poacher Syndicates.
Ponching by motor car appears to have become a highly organized industry in some parts of France. There is, first of all, the poacher, who goes out at night with a friend to drive the car. The poacher is usually a well-to-do man, who is not only a poacher, but also a hunter. He is usually a well-to-do man, who is not only a poacher, but also a hunter. He is usually a well-to-do man, who is not only a poacher, but also a hunter.

Theater Dress.
Full evening dress, which does not admit of smoking or dinner jacket, is in future to be insisted upon at the opera in Paris on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays, and the rule has raised once more the question of the right wear for theater in general. Before the war it was unusual to dress for the theater in Paris, except at certain houses, by no means in the habit of dress. The rule has been accepted as being fashionable, and even at those a man always kept his hat on during the intervals in the auditorium, and the old-fashioned theater-goer does so still.

The English and American invasion of the last few years has brought more white shirt-fronts into most of the theaters alight and the British custom of leaving the ladies alone in their seats to think over the play between the acts has not yet come into vogue. An amusing statement in the discussion is that which claims the right of those who attend repetitions general to wear any clothes they like, on the ground that the performance is really only a last rehearsal, whereas it is not only a rehearsal, but also a performance. The rehearsal of the previous evening, that of "les controuleurs," has been made in the study and treatment of arthritis has been made in the study and treatment of arthritis.

Everyday Questions

ANSWERED BY

Dr. S. Parkes Cadman

Long Island City.
In a recent answer you gave you stated that prayers for the dead are "permissible and helpful." I am presumptuous in asking a single New Testament reason for your answer? Since I came to America I came in touch with a number of people who are now my favorite book.

The first epistle of St. Peter states that our Lord preached His gospel to the living and the next, just before the flood (2:19-20). This passage clearly teaches that the dead are not beyond the reach of our prayers. It is a legitimate conclusion that they are not beyond the reach of our prayers.

Blairstown, N. J.
If a girl respects a man, feels that he will be a congenial life partner, sees in him the prospective husband, and feels willing to take the blessings and burdens of life by his side, is that enough love to get married? You have made so careful an analysis of your situation that you scarcely need any advice from me about it. The reasons you give for marrying are valid enough. I trust the man you are considering is equally aware of your congeniality, good points and willingness to share his lot.

But is not something of the divine affluence of the love emotion wanted in you? Dating is the prospective bridegroom's qualifications? Certainly you have the advantages of the detached view, unhampered by those delusions which make the grand passion so entrancing.

Far be it from me to discount your prudence. Indeed it is infinitely better to begin with a love that is pure and end with a husband you adore than to begin with a lover you adore and end with a husband you endure. Nevertheless, the greatest and most important element controlling this relation which I venture to suggest, many women marry prompted by the mother's influence. Altruism is a noble ideal. Others marry because of their innate domesticity. Home and its protection have largely in their view. Still others marry with a bargaining mind, and such marriages furnish much grist for the divorce mill to grind.

But the majority marry animated by the love which counts no costs, fears no risks, rejoices in incessant devotion and sacrifice, and is content in the love of which Frederick the Noble of Germany spoke when he said:

Time and Tide

BY JOHN HUBERT GREUSEL

A man seeks his mate, the woman likewise, but the grinding cares of everyday life, the incessant rumbling and creaking of the machinery, all turn on money.

From the cradle to the grave, money, money, night and day, year in and year out, is the one thing that counts. It is the one thing that counts. It is the one thing that counts. It is the one thing that counts.

And there are days, as well, that go into other people's lives—often to change their entire course, to remake them, to build them anew.

There are also days that pass into history as landmarks—such as when Columbus landed in America, or when the Pilgrims walked upon free land, or days when a great man was born, such as a Lincoln, or a Washington.

Where do the days go? If only we could always know.

How very wonderful if every day could go away with something that individual selves wrapped in its garments—something to warm memory and inspire faith.

Florida Realty Man Leaps to His Death.
West Palm Beach, Fla., November 10.—(AP)—Bernard Neime, 45, real estate dealer of West Palm Beach and Jacksonville, was found hanging from a tree in the morning from the ninth floor of a Clemenatis street office building.

Witnesses say he took the elevator to the ninth floor of the building and five minutes before his body dashed to the sidewalk below.

OVEREATING A FACTOR OF ARTHRITIS.
Dr. Frank Billings is the father of the focal infection factor—it is not merely a theory of chronic arthritis. Perhaps Dr. E. C. Rosenow may be called godfather of this epochal advance in the study of arthritis. Dr. Billings is no relation to Josh who discovered Billings' complaint; Dr. Billings is a Chicago physician now retired. Dr. Rosenow is a Rochester, (Minn.) bacteriologist. These two physicians should divide the prize of honor which ought to be conferred upon the person who has contributed the most helpful service in conquering this most disabling disease. After these names are given, attention is directed to the progress that has been made in the study and treatment of arthritis has been made in the study and treatment of arthritis.

BITS OF NEW YORK LIFE

BY JOSEPH VAN RAALTE

New York, November 16.—Tell a New Yorker he's a sap or that he lacks a sense of humor and you have a fight on your hands. There are more half wise bores to the square mile along Broadway than there are to the square mile in any other city in the world; but the fact must not be stressed.

All anyone has to do to who doubts this statement is to cast a careful eye over the advertising columns of any of the New York newspapers. Among the half-witted listed the other day, for example, appeared the following masterpiece:

"Salespeople—Our method of taking prospects in a de luxe bus, giving them dinners at a fine hotel and returning them to their homes at our expense, has proven a very successful way of selling lots near a marvelous beach, for less than $200 a lot. Many of our customers are making the most money they ever made in their lives. We need a few more ambitious ladies. High mental rating in a fair intelligence test would save somewhere around 50 minus."

The tragedy lies in the picture of these poor dumb-bells spelling out these ads, and putting their hard-earned money for reincarnated cat fur under the belief that they are annexing a new world. Tell any one of these small-salaried, glib, not hard-boiled, but half-baked nitwits, that he is a sap, and your guard will have to go up as if it were operated on a hair trigger.

The funny part of the phony fur ads is that the owner of the tabloid in which they appear is conducting a campaign in his news columns to rid the city of criminals.

Personally, I subscribe to the belief that it takes more than a "stick-up" man to be a credit to the honest editor.

Your Boy and Your Girl

BY ARTHUR DEAN, S. C. D.

The Parent Counsellor

CAN YOU FOOL YOURSELF?
Yes, you most certainly can. To fool one's self is the easiest thing in the world; to fool others is harder. Take, for example, the boy who thinks he is fooling his teacher by bluffing about his work and his home study. He thinks he is fooling her; well, perhaps he is, but he is fooling himself, all the more. When this time-killer flunks he will blame his teacher; when his classmate receives high marks the flunker will call it " favoritism" and will come home saying, "The fellow had a drag with his teachers."

Of course it takes all sorts of people to make up a school. One chap looks upon the school as a place to have a good time, meet friends, and go to dances. Another chap believes that school is an opportunity to get all the good out of it. He is a student, and he is a student. He is a student, and he is a student. He is a student, and he is a student.

Which reminds me of something someone sent me written by E. Berkowitz.

WITH Apologies to Kipling.
If you can stay in the study hall and study.
While those near you are talking and having fun.
If you can memorize dates and results and reasons,
And finish the work in your notebook that you can't do.
If you can get your school and the other boy's paper,
And a visit from the teacher never fear.

Yours is the school and everything that's in it.
And what's more, you'll be a wonder my dear!

"Appreciation" says some boy who reads this.
All right, boy, have it your own way. I tell you, cheaters are poor bargainers with themselves. You think everything is going well because you have outwitted your teacher by getting a high grade. But when the teacher eventually the cheater pays the highest price possible for the little he gets.

As they say in selling an automobile, "It is not the original cost that counts, it is the upkeep."

Protests Against Leaving The Bankhead Highway From Building Budget
Editor Constitution: After reading the 1927 highway budget adopted by the board Monday, I addressed a letter to the board as follows:

"After careful reading of your road program for 1927-28, as published in The Atlanta Constitution this morning, you have provided for paved roads on all lines leading out from Atlanta, with the exception of the Bankhead Highway, leading west through Austell, Douglasville, Villa Rica and Tallapoosa. The counties along this line have been petitioning the state to provide, and made it possible, for the grading and surfacing of this road, which was one of the first road work done in the state, with the counties paying one-half and the state the other half. The condition of this road through the wet season and winter months is almost impassable, and I have been told by a great many tourists that the abandonment of this road is the worst condition of any section of the Bankhead highway, from Carolina points to the Alabama line. It is manifestly unfair that, after these small counties have been petitioned for years, and have been asked to pay one-half of the cost of the road, that it should be abandoned."

OLD SI SAYS:

"My Life Story"

Written by Rudolph Valentino

70TH INSTALLMENT.

My dreams have all come true! Out in glorious, sun-kissed California, artists are at work on a big, new house in the Spanish adobe style, with a patio and a fountain.

A regular love nest. It is the realization of my dearest dream of all. The home I am building for Natacha Rambova, the one woman I adore, my best friend, my life. I have spared no expense to make it artistically perfect and perfectly artistic, in keeping with the gracious Natacha Rambova was known as one of the most beautiful and talented Russian dancers in this country. She has great talent as an artist. Why should she not have? She is a niece of Miss Elsie de Wolfe, famous as a designer of stage sets and household interiors.

I have given Natacha art blanchette in decorating our Hollywood house, to be our real home. What a wonderful, wonderful girl she is. She has been of inestimable aid to me in my work. She has aided me with her sketches and designs for my costumes.

She designed my clothes for "The Sheik."

She has assisted me wonderfully in the use of pantomime as applied to pictures.

Our home will be furnished in artistic fashion because Natacha's inspiration is behind it.

Time was, not so long ago by the calendar, when I actually felt Hollywood. Wished never again to see California. That was when Natacha was sent east from me "for the good of the producing corporation's business interests."

But all the clouds have passed. All of my business worries have ceased to be. My new associations, my new projected pictures, my new contracts, everything has blended to make for utter happiness and contentment.

Every human being has the right to success and happiness.

If you live in accordance with the dictates of the great laws of life, one or more harrowing experiences cannot keep you down beyond recall. Do not get "half married!" Love your wife with your whole heart and soul. Be a "one-woman man," as I take pride in admitting I am.

Wealth in dollars is at hand. But my greatest treasure is my wife—one woman.

And with work before me, my play day over, I reluctantly lay aside my diary for the time being and bring this narrative to an end with a singing heart. For all of my dreams of love and success have come gloriously true.

Adios! Tomorrow we will tell why Valentino made his most intimate diary public before he had any thought of the "Great Beyond."

LEE STREET WIDENING ASKED BY LAGRANGE

The Fulton county commission at its next meeting, December 1, will be asked to take under consideration the widening of Lee street from College Park to the city limits or to provide a more accessible thoroughfare for the heavy traffic which it now handles.

The LaGrange Chamber of Commerce recently adopted resolutions calling upon the commission to take immediate steps to relieve the situation, which was termed "dangerous," due to the fact that the large amount of traffic the street handles must use the narrow street in entering Atlanta from that section of the county.

The petition was signed by G. C. Hunter, mayor; H. C. Fincher, president of the chamber of commerce, and a large number of LaGrange's most prominent citizens.

Members of the commission Tuesday night asserted that they were thoroughly familiar with the situation and that they hoped to devise ways and means by which a more accessible way into the city might be arranged.

Paul S. Etheridge, chairman of the commission, stated that he had received several letters of late in regard to the widening of the street and a number of others suggesting that a new roadway be constructed on the left of the railway tracks to the left of Lee street from Atlanta.

This would involve the expenditure of a large amount of money and at the present time cannot be undertaken by the commission, due to its enormous construction program and the heavy budget for the coming year.

Plans, however, will be discussed at the meeting and a movement set on foot to devise ways and means for taking necessary steps to relieve the situation, it is said.

Cuba Breaks Off Relations With Uruguay Nation

Havana, Cuba, November 16.—(AP)—Cuba has severed diplomatic relations with Uruguay. The Cuban government today recalled Ricardo Garcia, its minister to Uruguay, because of the failure of the Montevideo government to give satisfaction for an alleged insult to Cuba's dignity voiced by the Uruguayan delegate before the League of Nations at Geneva.

Senor Garcia was instructed to leave Uruguay immediately, and the Cuban minister at Buenos Aires, Manuel De La Vega Y Calderon, was ordered home for not acting promptly when articles offensive to Cuba's dignity were published in newspapers in the Argentine capital.

The diplomatic break arose over a discussion between Grestes Ferrera, Cuban delegate to the league, and Alfredo Guiani, Uruguayan delegate, at a session last September. The Uruguayan delegate's statement that Cuba's sovereignty was restricted by virtue of the permanent treaty between Cuba and the United States brought a quick retort from Senor Ferrera, who is now representing Cuba on a special mission to Brazil.

Williams' Friends Urging Him for Post Of Speaker Pro Tem.

Friends of Representative Emmet M. Williams, of Monroe county, are active in promotion of his campaign for the position of speaker pro tem of the house of representatives when it convenes next June, and have obtained a large number of pledges of support from his fellow members, it was announced Tuesday.

Representative Williams has served three terms in the legislature, has held some of the most important committee assignments in that body. During the last session of the legislature he was chairman of the penitentiary and training school committees and was a member of the appropriations, ways and means and constitutional amendments committees.

Milton C. Work's Pointer On How To Play Bridge

(Milton C. Work, the international bridge authority, will answer your auction bridge questions. A stamped self-addressed envelope must accompany each request for replies.)

In yesterday's bridge article I urged against doubling informally with less than five high cards, and I emphasized the importance of sticking to this rule so that every double will be dependable and furnish a partner with the reliable information which he must have to properly answer it.

An answer to a double being the declaration which partner makes if the intervening adversary passes.

Yesterday I gave four hands, in all of which Dealer (South) did not Trump. Second Hand (West) doubled. Third Hand (North) passed, and the question was what answer Fourth Hand (East) should make to West's informal double; the score being love-all.

Prayer At His Home. At 2:30 there was a prayer at the mid-Victorian brick mansion, which Uncle Joe had built for his bride in another generation. The prayer, held aloft by members of the Ewing, pastor of St. James Methodist church, was a private service for members of the family and close friends.

Then, the body of Uncle Joe, who had lain in state since Sunday, to be viewed by thousands of townspeople, was carried for the last time through his doorway by past commanders of the Curtis G. Redden post of the American Legion. Under an arch of swags, held aloft by members of the Knights Templar, the coffin passed, and through a double line of honor members of the Boy Scouts.

It was a short block to the Methodist church, whose walls are covered with ivy, planted by Cannon's wife, dead 30 years, more than a generation ago. The soft deep tones of Chopin's funeral march already had begun to resound through the edifice when the body was borne to the church.

Business halted. The city's business was at a standstill from 2:30 to 4:30 o'clock by proclamation of Mayor Claude P. Madden. While church services were being held, churches of fellow citizens of Danville's most illustrious son extolled his virtues. A little group lingered at the red brick Cannon mansion, with its jutting eaves and round tower.

In the crowded church, the Rev. Ewing offered a brief prayer. Then a hymn by the choir and scriptural reading from the Apostle Paul, Cannon's favorite Biblical character.

In an hour, the services at church and grave were ended. In the gathering dusk, as the body was lowered into the chimes of the First Presbyterian church pealed forth, "Nearer My God To Thee," Uncle Joe's favorite hymn.

That was all. In his late home remained some of the flowers an appreciative nation had sent, banked row on row. "Joe's room" was empty. The man who died at 90, after passing more than half of his life in public service, had gone to join the company of another sphere.

3 ERRORS PICKED IN LUNCHING TRIAL

Douglas, Ga., November 16.—(AP)—With the acceptance of three jurors in the trial of Major Brown, charged with murder in connection with the lynching of Dave Wright, court was recessed late tonight until Wednesday morning. The three were selected from 75 veniremen, who were examined today.

The prosecution elected to try Major Brown first, although the defense made an effort to have all of the defendants tried jointly. Under the usual procedure this would have given the defense 300 challenges, the exercise of which would have made it extremely difficult and even doubtful whether a jury could be obtained in Coffee county. There are only 516 names in the jury box.

The defense was unwilling to waive this right, so the state proceeded with the trial of Brown.

Twelve of the 16 men who are under indictment in the lynching case, were today brought from jail in Ware county where they have been held for safe keeping. The prisoners were handcuffed in pairs and were accompanied by Ware and Coffee county officers. Robert Ballard, the white youth who is alleged to have confessed to participation in the lynching, implicating the others who are under indictment, was under a special guard and was manacled.

It is believed the jury will be completed sometime Wednesday. A lack of evidence is expected to be a long drawn out affair. A stubborn fight is promised by both sides due to the wide family connections of the accused man. The charge is murder.

Coolidge Lays Tax Cut Job On Congress

Washington, November 16.—(AP)—Having disclosed that there is enough money in the treasury to warrant a 15 per cent refund on this year's income taxes, the administration feels that the next move is up to congress.

It was said at the white house today that President Coolidge thought congress the best judge of what should be done with the surplus. The pronouncement was taken as an indication that in his annual message Mr. Coolidge would not attempt to work out details of the refund proposal, but would inform the senate and house they must fight out that question for themselves.

Secretary Mellon has suggested that the money returned to the taxpayers be remitted in the form of a credit on next year's payment, half of it to be deducted from the March installment and half from the June installment.

NEW SAVANNAH BANK AGENT NOT NAMED

No successor to R. L. Groover, who recently resigned as federal reserve bank agent at Savannah, was appointed Tuesday at the regular meeting of the executive committee of the sixth district federal reserve bank, it was stated after the meeting. The matter of Mr. Groover's successor will probably be handled at the next meeting. It was said. One of the employees of the Atlanta bank is acting agent at Savannah, while the successor it appointed, it was stated.

WARE'S ELECTION COST HIM $7,668

Washington, November 16.—(AP)—William S. Ware, of Pennsylvania, whose right to a senate seat is questioned because of heavy expenditures in his primary campaign, spent $7,668.28 in his general election contest, he declared in a sworn statement filed today with the secretary of the senate.

The senator-elect, a republican, who defeated William B. Wilson, former democratic secretary of labor, reported that he had received no contributions either directly or indirectly and had made no pledges in the campaign. Of the total amount expended he said $5,000 was given to the Pennsylvania republican state committee, and $2,668.28 to the Philadelphia republican campaign committee.

An investigation of the balloting and vote counting in the senatorial election in Philadelphia is under way and there have been suggestions that the senate committee headed by Senator Reed, democrat, Missouri, would be asked to inquire into the general election campaign.

Senator Oddie, republican, who was reelected from Nevada after Raymond T. Baker, democrat, reported expenditures of $1,522. He said he had financed the fight himself.

Senator Broussard, democrat, Louisiana, reported today that he did not expend a cent in his successful campaign for reelection.

FAIR AND WARMER WEATHER TODAY, SAYS FORECASTER

Fair and warmer is the forecast for today's weather, according to C. F. Hermann, meteorologist of the local weather bureau.

"No rain and no cold weather is in sight for the next few days," Mr. von Hermann stated, adding that the slight increase in temperatures will bring the mercury up to the 55 degree level today. It is not expected to go below 45 degrees. Temperatures ranged between 40 and 50 degrees, with a tendency to increase.

GERMAN ORDER OUSTS SON OF EX-KAISER

Berlin, November 16.—(AP)—Resignation of Prince Eitel Friedrich, son of the ex-kaiser, as grand master of the order of St. John has been accepted. It was tendered because of the court finding naming him as the guilty party in the princess' recent divorce suit.

Episcopal Synod Of Sewanee Open At Jacksonville

Jacksonville, Fla., November 16.—(AP)—With a procession of the attending vestment clad bishops and clergymen, the eighth synod, province of Sewanee, Protestant Episcopal Church of the United States got underway tonight at the church of The Good Shepherd.

Formal business sessions at which new officers are to be elected will begin tomorrow morning. The synod comes to a close Thursday night. No legislative action is likely to be taken at the conference, which is a connectional gathering.

After addresses of welcome on the part of leading Jacksonville citizens and Florida church men and responses by prominent visiting churchmen, Miss Margaret Weed, president of the province's woman auxiliary, made the principal address of the evening.

This afternoon a quiet service for the women delegates was held, while the members of the executive committee of the provincial Young People's Service league launched their conference sessions.

One of the most important reports of the synod, that of the department of religious education, will be presented at tomorrow's session, it was indicated today.

Tomorrow night the synod will be addressed by the right Rev. Dr. John Gardner Murray, bishop of Maryland and presiding bishop of the American church.

Dioceses of all the southern states with the exception of Arkansas, Texas and Virginia, and of the Panama Canal Zone are represented in the synod gathering.

day afternoon by the board of education. W. D. Hoffman, chairman of the current expenditures committee of the board, protested the expenditure of any money or the authorization of sketches for all of the projects until the bonds have been adjudicated. He declared that the board would be bound to pay for such work.

The board voted to place a contingent fund of $15,000 at the disposal of the administration department so that preliminary sketches might be carried forward with as little delay as possible.

J. W. Maddox, commissioner from the fifth ward, assailed the policy "set out" by the bond commission and others in authority, when they voted to pay $25,000 damages to Maynard Jacobs, of Macon, lessee of the Kimball house, for damages the proposed viaducts would do the property.

"This was a sad mistake and literally a hold-up scheme," Mr. Maddox said. "These people were not even residents of Atlanta and only had a lease. We should have paid this sum. It was tantamount to buying them off, and now come others who seek the same thing."

Christmas Treasure Waits On Elephant Game Winners

Christmas is coming soon, and Christmas means need for cash for presents, good things to eat and treats for the wife or the kiddies.

Take a little tip on how to make a financial coup for the holidays as the result of a fascinating filler in mathematics—The Constitution's elephant game.

No event of its kind has ever aroused such keen interest as has this one. Whole families are engaged in the interesting and instructive game, which involves nothing more complicated than a simple process of adding the figures which compose the body of the famous pachyderm.

Everybody has an equal chance. Buy Your Engagement Ring Now at Your Own Price at MAY BROS. AUCTION

Everyone can employ any means he chooses of adding the figures.

The contest closes officially on November 27 which means that 11 days remain. This is far more time than is needed to add the figures, and everyone who would like to share in the 30 big cash prizes offered—beginning with the grand capital award of $2,000—is invited to get pencil and paper and start now to teach a solution to be submitted. You'll find the entire family will get lots of fun out of the game, and there's plenty of time to calculate and submit your answer.

Those who have been engaged for some time past in the contest are strongly urged not to fail to properly qualify their answers to secure the grand prize. Delay may prove fatal, so as soon as you're satisfied as to the accuracy of your answer, qualify and submit it once.

The size of the prize you win depends upon the closeness of your figures to the correct weight of the elephant, a big picture of which appears in a display advertisement in this issue of The Constitution. Extra copies may be secured without charge by mailing a self-addressed and stamped envelope to the contest manager, The Constitution with a request for the same. Another condition to the size of the award you win is the kind of subscription received with your answer.

A three-months subscription to The Daily and Sunday Constitution, $2.50, with the winning answer, will only pay you $200. A six-months subscription, $5, sent in with the winning solution, will pay $500. A 12-months subscription, $9.50, will put you in line for a prize of $1,000; and a 24-months subscription, $19, together with two new six-months subscriptions at $5 each, total $19.50, will make you eligible to receive the capital prize of $2,000.

Turn to the advertisement in this issue and let's go.

UTILITY VALUES SHOW BIG GAIN. RETURNS REVEAL

Increases aggregating $8,808,933 in taxes of public utilities of Georgia for 1926 were announced by the state comptroller's department today. This increase, added to the $13,000,000 increase in assessed values of property for ad valorem taxes, brings the total increase in tax valuations to approximately $22,000,000 for 1926 over the preceding year.

Valuation of all public utilities as assessed in 1926, amounted to $18,242,593 as compared to $18,473,634 for 1925.

Decreases in value of property subject to ad valorem taxes were reported in 78 counties, while 88 counties reported increase. The largest increases were in counties in which cities are located, the decreases coming in rural counties.

Increases in assessed valuation of electric light and power companies amounted to approximately $4,000,000, this being the largest item in the utility increases. Increases also were made in assessments of railroads, gas and water companies and telephone companies.

DELAY DECISION ON USING SCHOOLS FOR PLAYGROUNDS

Proposal of the Atlanta bureau of recreation, operated in conjunction with the parks department, to the Atlanta school board, that playground children be permitted to use the auditoriums of three schools three afternoons a week, was deferred Tuesday in order to permit recreation officials to present their views to the board.

T. S. Settle, field secretary of the American Playground and Recreation association, appeared in behalf of the proposal, but when some opposition developed, he asked that definite action be postponed. His request was granted.

Use of Kickwood, Gordon and Harris school auditoriums was requested. Several members of the board pointed out that kindergarten classes are now held in the auditoriums in the afternoon, and further declared that property of the city schools would be jeopardized if the request were granted. They added, however, that if a school official could be at the schools at the time and assist playground directors in protecting the property, the program might be carried out.

DR. JAMES HOBBS NAMED ALABAMA BAPTIST LEADER

Mobile, Ala., November 16.—(AP)—Dr. James R. Hobbs, of Birmingham, was named president of the Alabama Baptist state convention at its session here today. He succeeds W. A. Davis, layman, of Anniston, who served two years. Other officers named were: Dr. W. R. Seymour, Salem, vice president; R. J. Harding, Mobile, second vice president; Dr. A. M. Woods, Birmingham, re-elected secretary, twenty-first time; Dr. A. S. Barnes, treasurer.

A declaration against the Alabama law requiring the reading of the Bible in the public schools was made by Dr. W. F. Yarbrough, of Birmingham. As a substitute he recommended that a system be evolved to segregate for doctrinal instruction all children of one denomination. He said that he is against "making" people read the Word of God; that it should be voluntary.

School Board Seeks $60 for Publicity In 'School Builder'

W. D. Hoffman, chairman of the current expenditures committee of the board of education, and R. R. Ritchie, assistant superintendent of schools in charge of business affairs, Tuesday afternoon were charged with the responsibility of finding $60. This sum is to pay the public schools' part in an issue of the City Builder, in which educational advantages of this city were broadcast over the nation.

The board voted to empower Mr. Hoffman and Mr. Ritchie to "find" the money. If this fails, members of the board will be asked to contribute $5 each to pay the bill. So, despite the fact that members of the board receive no pecuniary remuneration for their services they will be asked to pay $5 for the honor of being a member of the body.

Commissioner Oscar Mills, of the ninth, stated that he would start the subscription, and by a simple mathematical process, pointed out that if each member would contribute $5 the debt would be retired without any additional drain on the finances of the board. There are 12 members of the board—one from each ward.

W. D. Hoffman, commissioner from the eighth, stated he would pay his pro rata share. Mr. Hoffman incidentally is president of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce and the City Builder is the official organ of that organization. He stated that the space was donated free of any charge, and that the costs were for cuts and the writing of the articles.

Wanted: To Discover Parent or Guardian For Orphan Railroad

Six miles of railroad track in Dooly county and a broken down bridge over the Flint river await a claimant. For several weeks efforts to locate the owners of this line have been unavailing. It developed at the state public service commission Tuesday, when J. D. Lester, prominent Dooly county farmer, called on that body to help him find the owners of the line.

The track is what is left of the American and Atlantic railroad, construction of which was halted in 1917 when the government took over all railroads. Originally a company was formed at Americus to build the line to Brynmere, in Dooly county. Later the line was abandoned and as most of it runs through land owned by Mr. Lester he wants the tracks removed.

Mr. Lester has investigated and finds that ownership of the line has passed from the control of the group of Americus citizens who formed the original company and is now in the hands of persons who purchased bonds of the line.

STERNER TO SPEAK TO OGLETHORPE STUDENTS TODAY

Albert Sterner, painter, who lectured at the High Art museum during the Grand Central exhibition at the opening of the new museum, will speak to students of Oglethorpe in the school auditorium at 10:30 o'clock this morning.

Mr. Sterner will explain the essentials of painting, using an exhibit of some of his work for the purpose of illustration. The artist hopes to stimulate the "innate talent" that may be lying dormant in some students. He will be introduced to his audience by Sidney Dickerson, who painted the portrait of Mrs. J. M. High, donor of the High museum.

COUNTERFEIT SILVER DOLLARS LOOSE HERE

Counterfeit silver dollars are being passed in Atlanta, according to secret service agents who have received a number of the bogus coins from banks whose tellers found the fake money in deposits within the past few days.

The coins were probably made in Florida and are being passed by a gang on their way north, according to secret service agents. Apparently genuine with a nearly "true" ring, the coins bear dates from 1900 to 1904 and tarnish after the newness wears off.

11 New Collectors To Take Car Fares At Downtown Stops

As an aid towards speeding up the movement of street cars through the downtown section during the afternoon rush hours, the Georgia Railway and Power company announced Tuesday that 11 street collectors will be on duty at principal car and coach stops from 4 to 6:30 o'clock each afternoon except Sunday.

This service being offered at several new intersections where street collectors have not previously been stationed. These street collectors will accept fares from passengers, making it possible for passengers to enter at either end of the street cars. Passengers are urged to board the end where the least number is seeking entrance.

The collectors will be on duty at the following car stops: Alabama and Broad, Peachtree and Ellis, Peachtree and Houston (Peach building), Peachtree and Auburn, Houston and Pryor, Broad and Marietta (2), Edgewood and Pryor, Hunter and Pryor, Whitehall and Mitchell and Peachtree and Decatur.

BRITISH AUTHORIZE BASE AT SINGAPORE

London, November 16.—The project for a British naval base at Singapore, proposed and abandoned several years ago after a wave of opposition from the press and public officials in the far east, has been authorized at a cost of approximately $50,000,000.

Contract for construction of the huge floating dock which is to be constructed in England and towed out to the British free port which is the island capital of the Straits Settlements, was awarded Tuesday to Messrs. Swan Hunters, Ltd., at Well-sand-on-Tyne. The dock alone will cost more than $5,000,000.

The imperial conference now is discussing whether or not the British dominions, some of which have pointed out the need of the base as an important part of British defenses, will share the burden of construction expense. Since the project first was broached Australia has led in requests that it be started without delay.

In the days when the plan was in embryonic form it was stoutly opposed in Japan as a menace to other nations in the far east.

Mrs. M. L. Phinizy Will Be Buried Today In Augusta Cemetery

Augusta, November 16.—(AP)—Funeral services for Mrs. Mary Lou Phinizy, widow of Colonel Charles Phinizy, former president of the Georgia Railroad & Banking company and the Georgia Railroad bank, who died at her home here Tuesday morning, will be held at 4 o'clock Wednesday afternoon from her residence, Dr. A. J. Schand, rector of St. Paul Episcopal church, officiating. Interment will be in the city cemetery.

Mrs. Phinizy was greatly interested in church affairs and for many years devoted her efforts to improving the social conditions of business girls of the city. As president of the Y. W. C. A., she was largely responsible for bringing that institution to the forefront.

Mrs. Phinizy had a wide family connection throughout Georgia, and was known and beloved in many cities of the state. She was a member of the Yancey family of Athens, Ga. Mrs. Yancey was the mother of Bowdler Phinizy, owner and publisher of The Augusta Herald, and of Miss Mary Lou Phinizy, both of whom made their home with their mother.

Other survivors are Colonel Hamilton Yancey, of Rome, Ga., a brother; two grandchildren, Bowdler Phinizy Mays and Mrs. Donald N. Bussey, and three great-grandchildren, Harriet, Donald and Mary Lou Phinizy Bussey.

The great task of American railroad building goes uninterrupted on, evidencing itself in bettered road conditions, bettered equipment, and a constant and successful striving on the part of the steam carriers to provide superior freight and passenger service.

The tremendous investments—averaging more than $700,000,000 per year—on the part of the American railroads, not only keep busy the wheels of industry (American railroads are the largest buyers of steel, lumber, coal and many other essential products of the Nation), but they serve to demonstrate the determination on the part of railroad management to further improve the service on a transportation system that is already the best in the World.

It will be of particular interest to the patrons of the Louisville & Nashville Railroad to learn that its appropriations, expended or authorized for the first nine months of 1926, amount to about $39,000,000. Such improvements, in addition to the second-track work pictured above, include additional locomotives and freight and passenger cars, and various other projects designed to improve its transportation system.

Alabama, Stanford Chosen For New Year's Day Classic

Tide May Again Visit Pasadena Rose Bowl For Feature Clash

Alabama Officials Are Silent on Coming Battle Between Two Undefeated Teams—Visit Will Make Second Trip to Rose Bowl For Crimson Tide.

Los Angeles, Calif., November 16.—The undefeated football teams of Stanford and Alabama universities have been selected to meet in the annual intersectional game at the Pasadena Rose bowl on New Year's day. Les Henry, chairman of the Tournament of Roses committee, made definite announcement to this effect late Tuesday.

Brown university, also undefeated this season, had been considered for the east-west contest, Henry said, but Alabama was chosen instead.

A formal invitation has been prepared for consideration of the authorities of Alabama university, who already have indicated unofficially that they will accept.

The "Crimson Tide," as Alabama's husky football squad is called, rolled west last winter and defeated Washington university after a game which was marked by hard playing, injuries and thrilling fluctuations of fortune.

This fall the southerners have won all eight games on their schedule and have been scored upon but twice. Stanford also has a clean slate.

The 1926 records of the two teams follows:

Alabama
54 Millsap	0
29 Vanderbilt	7
25 Mississippi A. & M.	0
21 Georgia Tech	0
20 Sewanee	0
21 Louisiana State	0
24 Kentucky	0
49 Florida	0
Stanford
44 Fresno State	7
13 California Tech	0
10 Occidental	0
7 Olympic Club	3
3 Nevada	0
29 Oregon	0
13 Southern Cal	12
33 Santa Clara	14
29 Washington U.	10

On their comparative record, Alabama shapes up as the stronger eleven, particularly on the defense.

Stanford squeezed out a victory over Southern California by the margin of a goal after touchdown, and its goal line was crossed several times during the season.

Southern California, however, is playing a post-season game with Notre Dame, which will rival the Stanford-Alabama contest in interest.

ALABAMA OFFICIALS SILENT ON.

Tuscaloosa, Ala., November 16.—(AP)—University of Alabama officials were silent today concerning a report that the university football eleven would meet Stanford in an east-west battle during the Tournament of Roses at Los Angeles New Year's day. It was said that correspondence had been exchanged with California but the details of the reported negotiations were not made public.

GAME IS OPEN UNTIL AFTER MEET.

The University of Alabama, southern conference football champions, has been invited to meet Leland Stanford university in the annual tournament of roses football game at Pasadena, Calif., New Year's day. President S. V. Sanford, of the southern conference, told the Associated Press in a long distance telephone conversation tonight, from Athens, Ga.

Acceptance by Alabama of the invitation will be held up pending modification of a conference rule, which now prohibits post-season games, at

A.A.U. HALTS FOREIGNER INVASIONS

Baltimore, November 16.—(AP)—The Amateur Athletic Union today put its foot down on further "barnstorming" trips by foreign athletic stars in the United States at least for the period between now and the 1928 Olympic games.

Frederick W. Rubien, of New York, was selected secretary for the 13th time and the following presidents chosen: First, Avery Brundage, Chicago; second, Dr. M. P. D'Elia, Philadelphia; third, Charles L. Ornstein, Baltimore; fourth, Ernest Smith, San Francisco.

Establishment of the Panama Canal zone as a separate and active district association instead of being a part of the southern association, was ratified and an alliance with the Union of Amateur Athletics of Cuba approved.

Awards Ratified. Additional national championship awards were ratified as follows: Weight lifting, Philadelphia, September 5; senior basketball, Detroit; junior basketball, New Orleans; senior volleyball, Buffalo; junior volleyball, Pittsburgh; basketball, Kansas City, Mo.

Acting on the recommendation of its foreign relations committee, the convention of the national sports governing body, the A. A. U., decided to ban foreign athletes from the United States until the 1928 Olympic games. The ban was a result of the controversy which has grown out of Nurni's 1925 visit here and the one earlier this year of Charles Hoff, Norwegian, pole vaulter, figured largely in the A. A. U. decision.

There will be no title at stake in the struggle of these rivals, for both have lost to Princeton in the last "Big Three" tie series and are on the fight for the eastern honors. But Yale will hold a healing balm for many wounds, perceived as fall in addition to brightening the outlook of at least one coaching regime.

Yale has not only reached the closing game of the most disappointing season since Tad Jones took over the reins at New Haven, but its present losing streak of four games is the longest old grade can remember. In successive games, the Eli eleven has been trampled under foot by Brown, Army, Maryland and Princeton, being shut out in the first three.

Yale has fared no better, losing four of its seven starts. Its far, General, Holy Cross, Princeton and Brown have taken the measure of the Crimson, the Bruins inflicting a 21-0 defeat last Saturday.

Yale rules a 5-4 favorite.

As Yale and Harvard go through their last stiff workouts tomorrow, New York university will set out on the longest trip ever taken by a Metropolitan eleven, enroute for the midwest to face the Nebraska Cornhuskers.

While the east's interest will be focused on these two games, there also was promise of a stirring battle here between Fordham and Georgetown.

The Carnegie Tech-West Virginia meet at Pittsburgh stood out as the only other important engagement in a day that will mark the closing of the season for many teams and a holiday for others which wind up on Thanksgiving day.

Chattanooga Looking To 1st S. I. A. A. Title

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.
The University of Chattanooga Moccasins bid fair to annex their first Southern Intercollegiate Athletic association title this year, as they will probably be the only team in the junior organization that will go through the season undefeated. Two ties, with Oglethorpe and Birmingham-Southern mar their otherwise perfect record.

The only other undefeated team is Centenary, which must defeat Millsaps and Oglethorpe to keep their record unblemished. Victory for Centenary over both teams would give them undisputed claim to the mythical crown with five wins and no losses, but the battle with Oglethorpe is giving the Centenary coaches much to worry over.

Meets Easy Foe. Chattanooga has only Union to play and is expected to sweep that team aside. Should both Centenary and Chattanooga win their games, the tie games of the Chattanoogaians would roll them out of first place.

Centenary and Chattanooga both won over undefeated association teams Saturday, when the Gentlemen won from Louisiana Poly 7 to 0, and Chattanooga crushed Georgetown college 61 to 0.

Should both teams lose then five or six other teams would be pushed into the scramble for first place, and each probably could lay claim to the title, with comparative scores, which usually mean little, as the basis of their arguments.

Mississippi college and the Citadel have good records marred only by one defeat, while Mercer, Birmingham-Southern, Furman, Centre, Georgetown and Presbyterian college boast of two or more association victories.

O. S. U., ILLINI BEGIN WORK FOR BATTLE

Chicago, November 16.—(AP)—The disaster of losing to Michigan by a one-point margin, the miss of a goal after touchdown, rankles in the hearts of Ohio State's players who are determined to redeem themselves by a victory over Illinois next Saturday in the final game of the season.

Illinois has been pointing for the Ohio State game for two weeks and reports from Champaign tonight were that Coach Zuppke's regulars are in splendid shape to give the best account of themselves this season.

Zuppke kept his first-string team on the side lines last Saturday against Wabash, saving them from any possible injuries.

Illinois, if victorious over Ohio State, will be certain of a high rating in the final standing of the western conference, especially if Minnesota does that, then Illinois, Minnesota and the Wolverines all would be on equal basis with one defeat apiece. If the unexpected occurs at Iowa City and the Hawkeyes whale Northwestern, undefeated in the "Big Ten," then the solution to award championship will require dividing it into four parts.

Illinois considers a triumph over Ohio State would make the Illini's season a decided success with victories over Iowa, Chicago and Pennsylvania.

However, the sideline prophets consider the upper hand to Ohio and that Illinois would be obliged to play its best game of the season, not excepting the 3-to-0 Pennsylvania victory to lower the colors of the Buckeyes.

John Contos Lands Former Masked Marvel in Memphis For Big Bout at City Auditorium—Sauer is Confident of Defeating the Rough Grappler. Fans Will Welcome Marvel Here.

John Contos' search for an opponent to meet Dick Daviscourt at the city auditorium the night of November 26 ended in success Tuesday in Memphis, Tenn., to which place John went Sunday in search for fresh wrestling talent.

Contos, according to a telegraphic message received by The Constitution sport department, has signed Pete Sauer to meet Daviscourt and, according to John's report, Sauer is willing that the match be waged under any and all conditions.

The Telegram. "John's telegram read as follows: 'Pete Sauer,' the former Masked Marvel, accepts match with Daviscourt. Not only accepts match but promises me he will stop Daviscourt by winning.'

JOHN CONTOS. News that Sauer has been secured to meet Daviscourt will meet with the approval of the Atlanta wrestling fans, who took a liking to Sauer last year. Sauer wrestled here as the Masked Marvel, wearing a mask over his face until he was beaten last spring by Jimmy London.

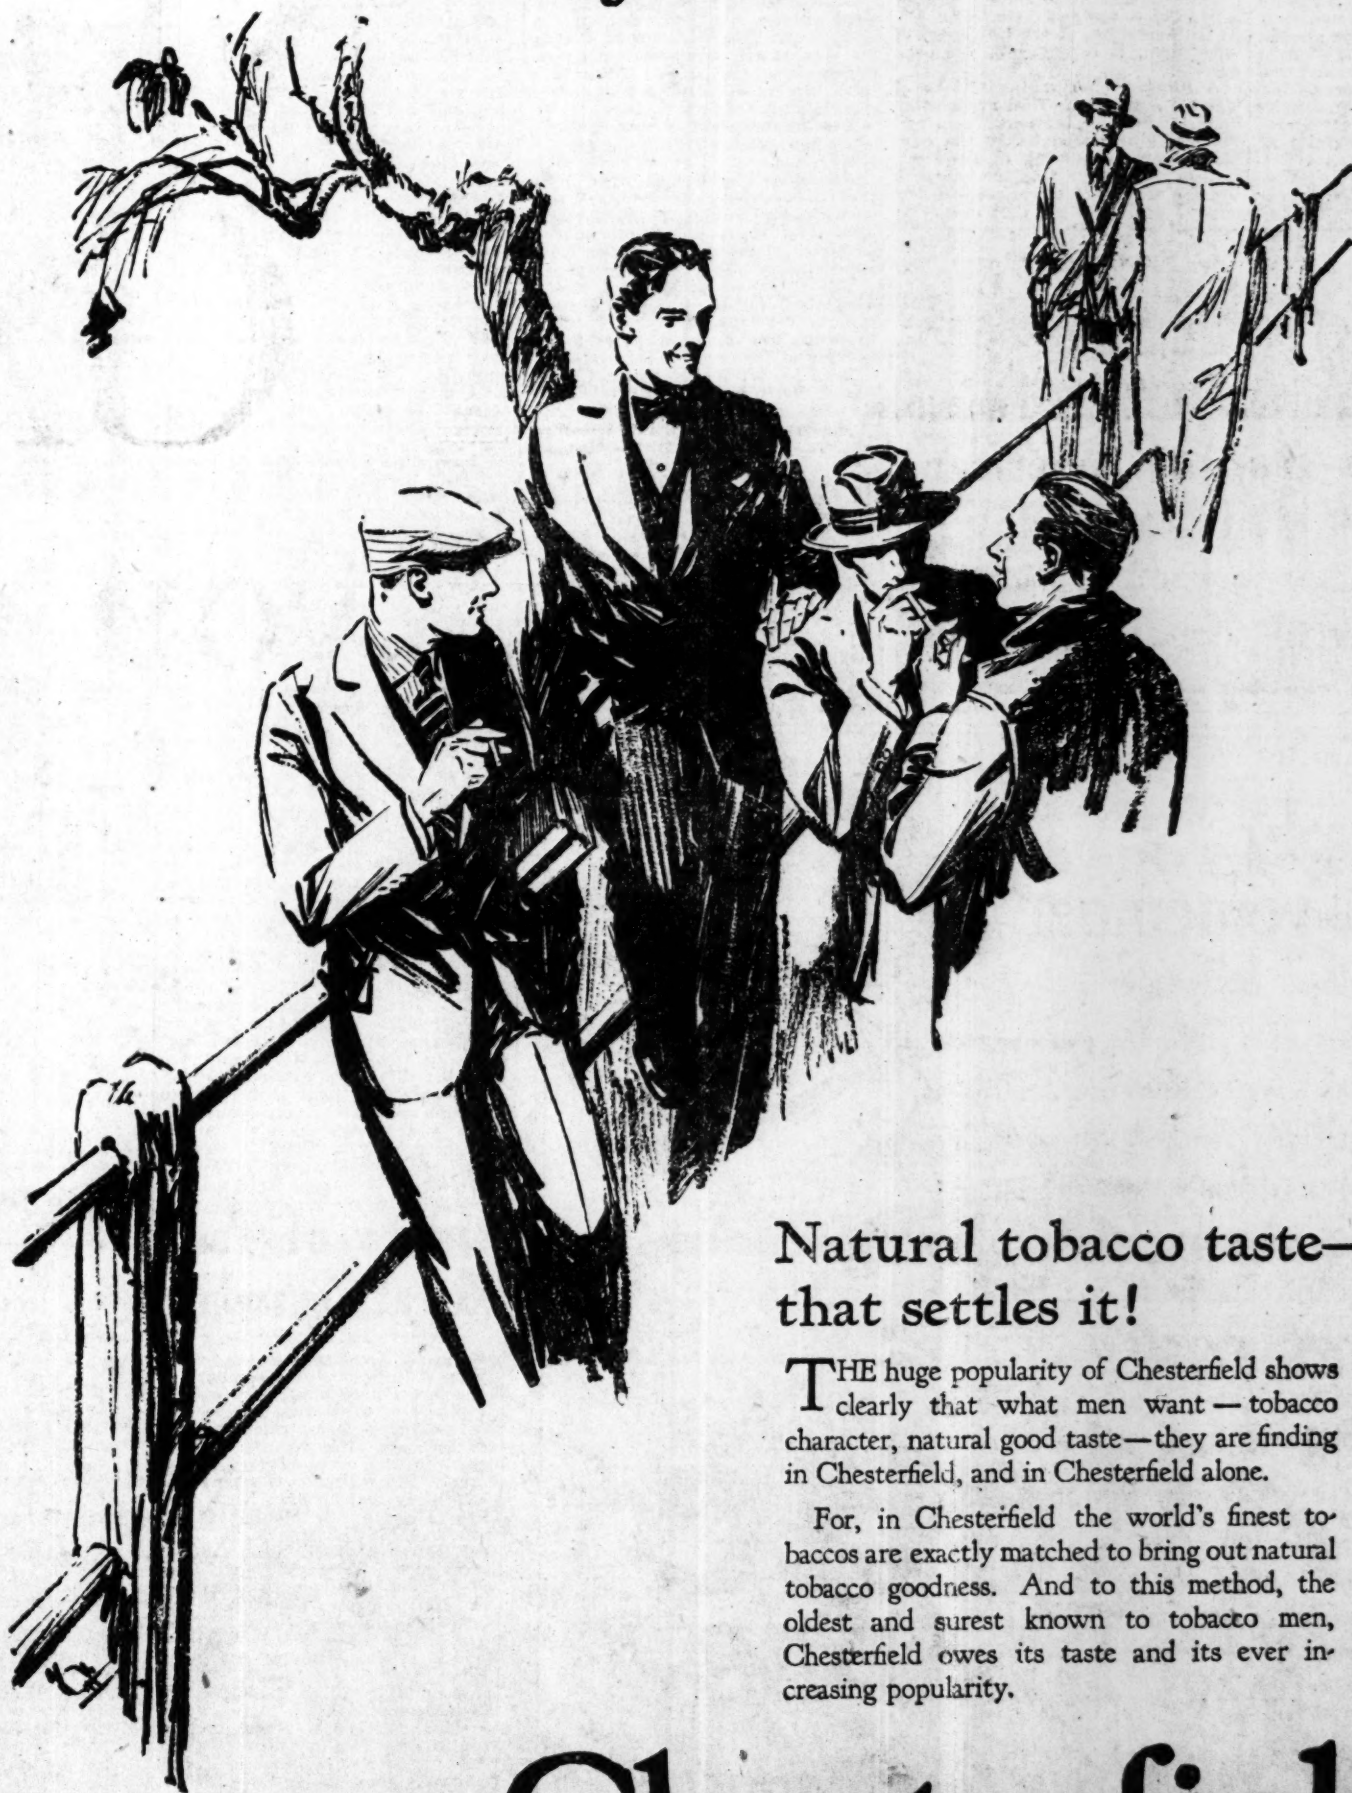

That match was one of the most spectacular ever staged in Atlanta and at the time of his defeat the Marvel had scored a fall over London. He lost the match when he dived on his head in an attempt to gain a headlock, thus knocking himself out.

P. G. A. Accepts British Challenge

New York, November 16.—(AP)—Great Britain's challenge for an international golf match between professional teams in this country next July was accepted today by the Professional Golfers' association.

Tentative plans call for the match to be staged on a course in the Boston district prior to the open championship at Oakmont. It will be a return meeting, an American team headed by Walter Hagen having been defeated on British links last summer.

Arkansas to Play Its Best Lineup For First Time

Fayetteville, Ark., November 16.—(AP)—For the clash with the Oklahoma Aggies at Stillwater Saturday, Coach Francis Schmidt, of the University of Arkansas, will be able to present for the first time this season a complete first-string lineup.

Japp, tackle, is recovering from his hurt and, Cowger, end, still nursing a bruised and slightly sprained knee, will probably get into the game.

With their traditions gone by the board as the result of Texas Christian university's close victory on home coming day Saturday and only the future to look forward to, the Razorbacks expect to come out of their three weeks' slump and show the fight that characterized their early season play.

LeBarba-Clark Bout Approved

New York, November 16.—(AP)—An other world's championship fight fell into Tex Rickard's lap Tuesday when the venerable New York boxing commission changed its mind and approved a title bout between Fidel La Barba, flyweight champion, and Elkey Clark of England.

Madison Square Garden will be the scene of the scrap, which is scheduled for early in January.

La Barba's superiority over his American rivals led to the club's age from little English champion being approved by everybody concerned except the boxing board. Clark was ordered to prove his right to the title fight by bowling over some American boys, Newshy Brown, of California, for example.

Projects of Junior League To Receive Aid From Match Gate

Johnny Farrell Entered in Tournament in Pinehurst—Sarazen and Partner Scheduled to Arrive in Atlanta During Latter Part of Week.

Bobby Jones and Watts Gunn will play Good Samaritans and also Johnny Farrell and Gene Sarazen in an exhibition match at East Lake Saturday afternoon. The match is scheduled to begin at 1:30 o'clock and will be a benefit performance for the Junior league.

Farrell is at present at Pinehurst and is entered today in the annual pro-amateur tournament there. He will be in Atlanta about Thursday or Friday as will his partner, Gene Sarazen.

Saying that Bobby and Watts are scheduled for the role of Good Samaritans.

It is Saturday is not exactly creating a misnomer. Both will be playing for the kiddies of Atlanta, as well as the large number of institutions that are supported, or partly supported by the Junior league.

One of the activities of the league is providing milk for undernourished children of Atlanta whose parents, if any, are too impoverished to provide it. School children, in the poor and undernourished class, also come under the wing of the Junior league in that they are provided with lunches and such.

Tom Paine has been selected as the referee of the match.

Many Athletic Posers Scheduled for Meet

Jackson, Miss., November 16.—(By the Associated Press.)—Scholastic requirements for members of athletic teams and regulation of absences brought about by athletic games are expected to have a prominent place in the discussions of the annual meeting of the Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools November 30 for a four-day session.

"The tendency in the association has been to uphold high standards for athletics and to restrict absences to a minimum," Professor J. Reese Lin, of Millsaps college, said today in discussing this phase of the meeting. The professor considered action to enforce regular attendance as probable at the coming meeting.

The 72 colleges and 483 secondary schools from 12 southern states will come to Jackson as guests of Millsaps and Mississippi colleges, although all members of the association in Mississippi joined in the invitation. Reservations for 200 delegates have been made and officials are expecting an attendance of more than 300 of the south's leading educators.

The routine of business is established so as to speed action as much as possible and thrash out the many problems during the four-day session. Following the usual plan the commission on colleges and the commission on secondary schools will meet on November 30 in order to present definite

SANDLOTTERS TO PICK TEAM FOR BATTLE

All the football in this man's country is not confined to the grownups, as has been evinced by the members of Atlanta's sandlot leagues, who really play football as football should be played.

This afternoon at 3 o'clock at Piedmont park the members of the five teams in the Southern league of the Sandlot circuit will meet in competitive games to determine the personnel of an all-Sandlot team to meet the aggregation of the Junior Military academy of Bloomington Springs, Tennessee, at Grant field on November 20.

It was at first planned to match the Biarritz Tigers against the invaders but there are other teams in the league with nearly as good a record of officials and it is the opinion of officials that all the best players should have a chance at the Tennesseeans.

With this in mind Chick Harris will select an all-star team from the five divisions of the Sandlot circuit by means of 15-minute elimination games this afternoon at Piedmont.

By this means it is the object of the officials to place a team representative of Atlanta in the field against the invaders.

Schools have been admitted, Alabama Polytechnic institute and the Georgia School of Technology being notable exceptions.

Revision of the list of accredited schools and the admission of new secondary schools to membership will be the principal business before the commission on secondary schools, according to Professor Lin, a member of the committee. The graduates of the accredited schools are admitted to any and all colleges and universities in the United States without examination, except those schools that refuse admission on the certificate plan. W. L. Spenser, state high school supervisor for Alabama, is chairman of the commission on secondary schools.

The result of the standardization of colleges and schools in the association may be clearly illustrated by the fact that the United States government, in a prospectus to European countries, recommended the American colleges which are members of this association as efficient and reliable.

In addition to Millsaps and Mississippi colleges, the University of Mississippi and Mississippi State College for Women are members of the association from this state. There is a large number of accredited secondary schools in Mississippi.

The following states are represented in the membership of the association: Alabama, Florida, Georgia, Kentucky, Louisiana, Maryland, Mississippi, North Carolina, South Carolina, Tennessee, Texas and Virginia. West Virginia, formerly a member, has joined the Middle Atlantic group.

The University of Missouri, though a member of the North Central association, draws many students from the south and sends delegates to the meeting of the southern association. Dean M. W. Walker of the University of North Carolina is president of the association and Dean T. H. Jack, of Emory university is secretary. Members of the executive committee are:

Chancellor H. H. Kirkland, of Vanderbilt; President A. B. Dwinwiddle, of Tulane; Dean T. H. Baker, of the University of South Carolina; Professor W. B. Hooper, of the University of Georgia, and Professor S. P. McCauley, of the McCauley School of Chattanooga.

Professor Lin, chairman of the local committee on arrangements, is making elaborate preparation for the entertainment of the distinguished educators who will make up the association.

JOCKEYVALETS DISCONTINUED BY BRADLEY

New Orleans, La., November 16.—Rules discontinuing the employment of all professional "valets" for jockeys and barring all jockeys' agents have been adopted by the Louisiana Jockey club, which will be enforced during the entire coming winter meeting, which opens the fair grounds on New Year's day.

This action on the part of the Jockey club authorities was taken after a conference in which Colonel E. R. Bradley, president of E. G. Schleider, Colonel John P. Sullivan, General Manager James M. Murphy and Presiding Steward Joseph A. Murphy participated.

Hitherto, jockeys at the fair grounds, as elsewhere, have engaged their valets for the season, each rider being associated with the same valet throughout the meeting. In order to make such personal and permanent relations impossible, the Louisiana Jockey club has engaged 14 porters, who will be paid by the association and not by the riders. Each day there will be a drawing to determine what valets shall serve what jockeys, so that no one will know, from one day to the next, just who will be associated. Frank Smith, who has charge of the Schleider-Bradley Boys' Community club at the fair grounds, has been engaged to exercise supervision over the porters.

In doing away with the jockey agents, the fair grounds authorities have engaged a special clerk, William Doyle, who will look after the duties of making engagements for all riders, save where the boy is under contract, in which case either the contractor, employer or his licensed trainer must make the engagement. In rare cases, where a stable has a bona fide authorized agent, the stewards may improve and license such an agent to make engagements for a rider under contract to the stable; and free-lance riders, if they see fit, will be permitted to make their own engagements. But the engagement books of all other riders will be placed in the charge of Doyle, who is himself a former jockey, and who will secure mounts for the boys. A list of riders will be posted in the horsemen's lounge rooms. Owners and trainers will be required to report their riders' names by 8:30 of the day of any race in which they have entries. Failing this, Doyle has been authorized to place the most available rider on the horse, and the owners and trainers must accept his decision. This service will be carried on without charge to riders.

Plenty of Tank Men at Rensselaer

Troy, N. Y., November 16.—(Special.)—With swimming compulsory at Rensselaer Polytechnic institute there are plenty of candidates for the varsity swimming team which faces a stiff schedule. Regular practice will begin with the close of the football season. From past performances it seems likely that Captain Knox, Van Vleet, Holroyd and Mouradian will do most of the driving. Squares, Tom Kent, Edwards and Brick in the 440, though the latter may be out; Hopf and Elliott the breast-stroke; Page and McCourt the backstroke; and Watrous, a leading performer in the fancy diving, while there is a definite shortage in the distance diving division.

Among the leading candidates for positions are: D. H. Van Vleet, Brooklyn; Robert F. Knox, captain, Longkeeper; Don Squires, White Plains; Robert C. Edwards, Utica; Ward W. Watrous, Jr., Susquehanna, Pa.; Milton A. Hopf, Linwood, N. J.; Vernon S. Holroyd, Waterville, Conn.; Willard A. Mouradian, New Britain, Conn.; Eugene Brick, Rochester, N. Y.; Stephen C. Pep Basketeers Lose First Game

In the first basketball game of the "Y" association the Pep class of the Atlanta Y. M. C. A., bowed to the basketeers of Fort McPherson in an extra period game. The score was 28 to 26.

The first half ended with the score standing at 14 to 24 in favor of the infantry team, but the "Y" team gained steadily in the second half and the second period ended with the score 24 to 24. In the extra five-minute period the infantry scored two baskets while the Atlantians were able to mark up but one.

Referees of the Fort team was the high scorer of the game, with Mott running him a close second.

The Pep class still has a few dates open and is in search of opponents for these dates, according to officials of the team.

Epworth Athletic Meeting Tonight

The Atlanta Epworth League Union Athletic association will hold a special meeting tonight at the association's headquarters, 1101 Flatiron building, at 6 o'clock. Many matters of importance will be discussed at this meeting, particularly a report from the girls' meeting. Monday night, concerning girls' rules, will be called for and passed on. All directors are urged to attend this meeting.

Bass-O'Keefe Finish Work For Title Game

A championship will be at stake Thursday afternoon on Spiller's field when the Bass and O'Keefe Junior High school football teams tie up in their final game. This game is to start at 3 o'clock and one of the largest crowds that have ever witnessed a junior game will be on hand when the referee blows the starting whistle.

The Bass school has already sold 1,500 tickets, and the O'Keefe school has sold 1,000. There will be about as many parents as student fans to see this game, and no doubt a few hundred dyed-in-the-wool football fans that have been going out to see Senior High school games.

Coaches Holt and James had to resort to the white ball and the brilliant rays of the beautiful November moon to wind up their Tuesday practice. It was a hard grind for the boys but today the work will be light, consisting of signal drill and other light work.

With one exception the Bass team is in fine physical condition for the game. Tuesday afternoon A. Smith, one of the star halfbacks of the Bass outfit, received a hard jolt on his leg. Coach James, who attended the injury, believes that with good nursing the leg will be as good as ever on the afternoon of the game.

Coach Langston had his charges through a hard workout Tuesday afternoon. All of his players are in fine shape for the fray and they will step on the field as favorites by a touchdown or two.

One of the biggest assets of the Green team is the backfield combination that is seasoned and fast. They have gained a lot of ground this year.

on every team that they have faced. O'Keefe also has a strong forward wall that has been doing its stuff with regularity all season. There has not been a team to cross the O'Keefe goal line this year, and they expect to keep this record.

Mr. and Mrs. Wheeler Celebrate Golden Wedding Anniversary

An interesting and beautiful event of Tuesday was the reception at which Mr. and Mrs. P. E. Wheeler entertained at their home on Twelfth street in celebration of their 50th wedding anniversary. Fifty friends of the couple called during the evening to extend congratulations and share in the beautiful sentiment which marked the occasion.

Receiving with Mr. and Mrs. Wheeler were their children, including Dr. and Mrs. F. A. Vogt, of Miami, Fla.; Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Bryant, of Madison, Ga.; Mr. and Mrs. Monte Blackburn, of Statesboro, Ga.; Sidney Wheeler, of Monroe, Ga.; Mrs. E. R. Wheeler, of Madison, Ga.; and Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Wheeler, Miss Lucy Wheeler, Miss Kate Wheeler and Olin Wheeler, all of Atlanta.

An impressive ceremony was performed by the Rev. S. R. Bell, introducing a number of features which characterized the marriage service of 50 years ago. Prior to the ceremony Miss Ada Smith sang "The Sweetest Story Ever Told," accompanied at the piano by Mrs. E. B. Ussery, who also played the wedding march. Mrs. Wheeler wore a handsome gown of black charmeuse trimmed with a flesh colored chiffon fichu. She wore a shoulder bouquet of orchids and valley lilies. A profusion of golden colored chrysanthemums, combined with smilax and ferns were used throughout the reception rooms. The ices and cakes carried out the anniversary date in the golden shades. An exquisite lace cloth veiling gold-colored satin covered the table in the dining room. In the center of the table was a graceful basket filled with huge yellow chrysanthemums. At intervals were placed candlesticks holding colored tapers. On a side table was a beautiful wedding cake embossed in golden-colored flowers. The cake rested on a plateau of deep yellow roses and from the center of the cake arose a bouquet of roses in this same lovely shade.

Mr. and Mrs. Wheeler moved to Atlanta three years ago from Eatonton, Ga., where they had been life-long residents. Their marriage took place 50 years ago in Eatonton and was solemnized by the late Rev. W. T. Caldwell. Before her marriage Mrs. Wheeler was Miss Sallie Ardelle McNatt. Both the McNatt and Wheeler families are among Georgia's pioneers and have been prominently identified with the development and progress of this state. Mr. and Mrs. Wheeler have hosts of friends throughout the south, who will be interested in the celebration of their 50th wedding anniversary.

NO WOMAN CAN KEEP HOUSE EFFICIENTLY

Without Good Health

MRS. FRANK DINDORE
283 PIERCE AVENUE, LANCASTER, OHIO

Four Walls Can Make a House, but it takes a Woman to Make a Home

To be a successful homemaker, a woman must guard her health. When mother is not well, the home is upset. Women everywhere are learning through their own personal experiences, as these women did, the merit of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Lancaster, Ohio.—"For ten years after my marriage, I had poor health.

I was on a visit to my sister in Utica, Michigan, and she had taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Her husband got me a bottle and I took it and felt so much better that I got a second one. Now whenever I feel run-down I take the Vegetable Compound and soon feel all right again. I have had three little girls in the last six years and do all my housework, sewing, washing, and ironing. My time is pretty well taken up, but I will answer any letters I receive.—Mrs. FRANK DINDORE, 283 PIERCE AVENUE, LANCASTER, OHIO.

Sturgis, Michigan.—"I am very thankful for what your medicine has done for me and have recommended it to others. I took it to give me strength before my baby was born. I would have to stop work and lie down sometimes all the afternoon. I felt as if I did not care whether anything was done or not. I got tired out so easily. One day I found a little book on my porch and that night I showed it to my husband and he went down town and got me a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. The medicine has helped me so much that I was soon able to do my work and when my baby was born, my nurse, Mrs. Forbes, said it was the easiest birth she had ever attended. I will be more than pleased if I am helping someone else by giving my testimonial.—Mrs. EDWARD PRINCE, 208 Superior Ave., Sturgis, Michigan. —(Ad.)

bride's mother on Juniper street following the wedding. The bride, who was escorted by her brother, William Howard Magill, the bride's wedding dress and veil were worn by her mother, who was Miss Mattie Sue Howard before her marriage. The dress, which was an imported model of ivory satin, was only slightly changed, keeping the same quaint style of the very tight bodice and full skirt. The bodice was elaborately beaded in silver and pearls with inserts of real lace. A piece of real lace formed a bertha in the back of the bodice and an uneven hem line and reached to the ankles. Just above the hem was a bow of real lace and the whole skirt was elaborately beaded in silver and pearls with applique of white velvet. The long train was of white satin and was caught with a bow of real lace at the shoulder. The entire veil was of rose point lace. This exquisite veil was held to the head by a becoming coronet of real lace and orange blossoms. She carried bride's roses and lilies-of-the-valley.

Mrs. Magill, mother of the bride, wore a gown of peach colored georgette crepe, beaded in pearls and crystal and trimmed in bands of ostrich. She wore a corsage bouquet of roses and lilies-of-the-valley.

Mrs. Walter Hyde, of Memphis, Tenn., aunt of the groom, wore a pink georgette beaded in crystals and completing her costume was a corsage bouquet of roses and valley lilies.

An informal reception for the wedding party, relatives, and out-of-town guests was held at the home of the

Fashions Sketched by Kay

With the holiday season approaching, one's thoughts turn to more evening frocks and gorgeous wraps. Frohnsin's are showing some charming evening coats. I have sketched one for you today of gold and blue metal cloth made with the dolman sleeve; and sponsoring deep, luxurious collar and cuffs of white fur. As the mode dictates the blue becomes less intense as it runs through the intricate array of golden design, and shades from a deep royal blue to a very faint light blue. The effect is stunning; and midday becomes clothed in an air of sumptuous elegance. KAY.

Miss Madeline Keipp Presents Trumpet Player's Musical

Miss Madeline Keipp, noted Atlanta musician, will present a group of trumpet players in addition to her lecture at the third of the morning musicals given by the Atlanta Music club at the auditorium of the Atlanta Woman's club on Wednesday at 11 o'clock. Miss DeLoe Hill, well-known local pianist, will play a short program.

The subject of Miss Keipp's talk will be "Mythological, Primitive, Oriental and Medieval Wind Instrument." Miss Keipp is known as one of the best informed musicians in the city and her lecture is one of a series she is presenting before the local music club in the 16 morning musicals. She has made an extensive study of her subject both in America and abroad.

The trumpeters on Wednesday will play "Trompeten Sinfonie," a composition which, according to Miss Keipp, has never before been given in America. Each trumpeter will play but one note and the presentation of the number requires considerable skill as a musician. Those playing will be Mrs. Ben Lee Crew, Mrs. Bonita Crow, Mrs. Cliff C. Hatcher, Mrs. DeLoe Hill, Miss Evelyn Jackson, Mrs. John Mullen, Miss Helen Knox Spain and Mrs. Albert Walden. Mrs. Thad Morrison will be the accompanist. Preceding the trumpet program Mrs. Hill will play two piano selections: "The Pipes of Pan," Godard, and "In Deep Woods," and "The Joy of Autumn," by M. J. W. Membership for the season may be made at the meeting. Admission to non-members is 50 cents.

MEN WHO MADE THE WORLD

Fernando Cortez

By DR. ELLIOTT SHORING,
NOTED HISTORIAN

QUAHTEMOTZIN WAS AS RESOURCEFUL AS HE WAS DETERMINED. FOR TWO MONTHS HE HELD THE MIGHTY FORCES OF THE BESIEGERS AT BAY. HE PLANNED A CLEVER TRAP, CONCEALING A NUMBER OF THEIR LARGEST CANOES FILLED WITH BARRICADES, AMONG SOME RUSHES. THEN HE HAD STICKS DRIVEN IN THE BOTTOM OF THE LAKE SO THAT THEY WOULD IMPEDE THE PROGRESS OF THE BRIGANTINES BUT NOT THE CANOES. SOME SMALL CANOES THEN PUT OUT AND ENTICED THE BRIGANTINES INTO THE TRAP. THERE THE STICKS STOPPED THE BRIGANTINES, THE CANOES THEN SURROUNDED THEM, KILLING MANY OF THE SPANIARDS AND CARRYING OFF ONE BRIGANTINE IN TRIUMPH.

THE AZTECS HAD ONE FORMIDABLE WARRIOR OF GIANT STATURE, NAMED TZILACATZIN, WHO WAS A WONDERFUL MARKSMAN WITH HIS SLING, ALMOST EVERY STONE HE SENT BRINGING DOWN ITS MAN. SPANISH ARCHERS AND MUSKETEERS MADE GREAT EFFORTS TO KILL HIM, HIS GIANT STATURE MAKING HIM EASILY DISTINGUISHABLE, BUT THEY COULD NEVER HIT HIM. MANY OF THE SPANIARDS AND THEIR INDIAN ALLIES FELL A VICTIM TO THIS MAN'S SKILL.

AS THE TIDE OF BATTLE EBBED AND FLOWED, THE AZTECS WERE QUITE OFTEN VICTORIOUS. IN ONE FURIOUS ASSAULT THEY CAPTURED EIGHTEEN SPANIARDS ALIVE. IN ANOTHER ENCOUNTER THEY CARRIED OFF FIFTY THREE SPANIARDS, FOUR HORSES AND NUMEROUS ALLIES. THE SPANIARDS WERE ALL SACRIFICED IN VARIOUS TEMPLES, THEIR BODIES BEING AFTERWARDS CUT UP AND DISTRIBUTED TO BE EATEN.

Women Voters
To Sponsor Address
Wednesday, Nov. 17

The Atlanta League of Women Voters will sponsor an address under the auspices of its election committee, in Hall 1, of the Chamber of Commerce, from 11:00 to 12:00 o'clock on Wednesday, November 17. Mrs. H. Harvey Payne is the chairman of this committee, and her committee is composed of a representative of the league from every ward in the city, among them being Mrs. R. E. Rollins, Mrs. Wm. Strauss, Mrs. George A. Matson, Mrs. W. C. Robinson, Mrs. Chester Johnson, Mrs. Donald Loyless, Mrs. George Price, Mrs. M. L. Carraway, Mrs. J. C. McWilliams and Mrs. A. F. Almond. The meeting is open to the public but is given for the benefit of the members. This talk always precedes a league election in order that league members may understand this system of voting and counting which is considered by authorities as not only the most modern in existence but the most democratic ever evolved. This system has been used by the league in all its elections for several years.

The league's three-day course in parliamentary law and citizenship which is being held the 16th, 17th and 23rd of this month, opened its first session Tuesday morning at the Chamber of Commerce at 10:30 o'clock with its president, Mrs. R. L. Turman, in the chair. In addition to Mrs. Turman's address Miss Eleanor Raoul, executive director of the Atlanta League, Mrs. George Matson, parliamentarian, and Mrs. F. W. Altstaetter, of Savannah, Ga., made addresses. The class lasted two hours and a representative group of members were present with notebooks and pencils to take notes for the examinations which will be a feature of the last session. Members who plan to attend the second session on Friday, November 19 at 10:30 o'clock and who have not yet registered, are requested to do so at headquarters before that time.

American Home Department To Feature Program

How to tell "shoddy" from real quality fabric and how to distinguish proper street clothing from that which is unsuitable will be explained in a most interesting and professional manner at the regular monthly meeting of the American home department of the Atlanta Woman's club on Wednesday at 3 p. m., when Miss Clara Lee Cone, divisional chairman of home-making, will introduce Miss Berna Jarard of the Bass Junior High faculty, who will conduct simple laboratory experiments with different textiles. High school girls will also serve as models to show the difference between the right and wrong kind of clothing, as worn by school girls and older women.

Another treat for the club women will be a talk on "Home Making Abroad," given by Mrs. Mildred Seydell, who is not only conversant with her subject, but has spent some years of her life abroad. Mrs. Seydell will be introduced by Mrs. R. I. Reed, divisional chairman of the department's home economics teaching.

A Thanksgiving menu suitable for use in the average home will be the goal of the American home department this month. To this end, Mrs. Charles Harding, chairman of the club's famous cookbook, has announced a contest for a prize menu, with rules as follows: The menu is to be written clearly in ink or to be typewritten, the articles composing the menu are to be taken from the Atlanta Woman's club cookbook and indicated by the page number, and the menu in its entirety is to be well balanced and economical. Judges are Mrs. Price-Smith, club president; Miss Clara Lee Cone, head of the school system's home economics work, and Mrs. Newton C. Wing, chairman of the American home department. A delicious lemon cake, from the cookbook recipe of Mrs. D. F. Stevenson, will be awarded as first prize. Among the prominent club women who have already entered for the contest are Mrs. Norman Boole, Mrs. E. B. Davis, Mrs. James Buchanan, Mrs. D. F. Stevenson, Mrs. John C. Courtney, Mrs. W. M. Leppard, Mrs. M. Rollstone, Mrs. P. C. Pabel, Mrs. Frank Naeleie, Mrs. R. I. Reed, Mrs. John A. Perdue, and others. The winning menu will be printed in the newspapers.

Invited as guests of the department Wednesday are Mrs. Heidecker, of the home economics faculty of Bass High and the girls who won the first prize in the food preparation contest at the better homes exhibit at the pure food show recently. They are Misses Margaret Smith, Maynor Flucker, Florence Ballinger and Florence Gibbs. Each junior and senior high school demonstrated a sample meal at the Spanish bungalow kitchen during the week.

Those arriving before 3 o'clock Wednesday will have the opportunity to win the prize pie baked by Mrs. R. H. Merritt.

Manufacturers of Millwork Meet in Convention Today

Millwork manufacturers of the south will open their annual Atlanta two-day session at the Ansley hotel at 11:30 o'clock this morning.

The organization, which meets in Atlanta each November to exchange ideas and experiences, elect officers and complete plans for the ensuing year, is headed by M. S. Enoch, Jackson, Miss., president; A. S. Parker, High Point, N. C., and W. P. McPherson, Chattanooga, Tenn., vice-presidents; J. Harold Mulholland, Augusta, chairman of the board of directors, and C. B. Harman, of Atlanta, Ga., executive secretary and manager.

The program consists mainly of business and technical matters which include approval and adoption of a uniform proposal contract, official definition of millwork, revision of illustrated catalog, closer relations with architectural and contracting professionals, and participation in the proposed national millwork publicity campaign.

The session today will be devoted exclusively to organization, introduction of delegates, official and committee reports and a complimentary luncheon. The afternoon session will be executive.

Tonight the local entertainment committee will give delegates a theater party to be followed by a reception of the "Spider club" where each one will be presented with an appropriate souvenir.

The Thursday morning session will include election of officers, addresses by Albert Stevens, Jr., of San Antonio, Texas, on "Turn-Over," and Powers Pace, Atlanta, on "Glassing and Glazing." In the afternoon those who play golf will participate in a match at the Druid Hills Golf club and others will be driven around the city.

CHEVROLET DEALERS MEET HERE TODAY

R. H. Grant, of Detroit, vice president and general sales manager of the Chevrolet Motor company, will be one of the guests of honor at a convention of the Chevrolet dealers of Georgia and Alabama, which will be held today at the Biltmore hotel.

Fifty hundred dealers from the two states are expected to attend the meeting.

Among other Chevrolet officials who will attend the conference are: M. D. Douglas, regional sales manager, Norwood, Ohio; L. S. Costley, assistant regional sales manager of the southeastern region; Atlanta: P. Sever, zone sales manager, Birmingham, Ala.; Ray D. Wilson, zone sales manager, Jacksonville, Fla.; and E. E. Riley, zone sales manager, Atlanta.

The meeting here will discuss methods to increase sales in the southeastern region. Mr. Grant has attended conferences held recently in Chicago, St. Louis and Cincinnati. During the week he was at Chicago that region's Chevrolet sales and during the week he attended the St. Louis conference that region held the country.

The first two weeks of November were record-breaking weeks for the Chevrolet forces in the southeastern region, it was announced. More sales were made during this period than during any two weeks previously in the history of the southeastern region.

The Chevrolet dealers are now in a contest which will last through November. The winners of the sales contest will be invited to eat a turkey, while the losers will eat only beans. In Atlanta the contest is at work, one headed by Mr. Riley, sales manager, and the other by Mr. Akers, assistant sales manager.

FREE BAND CONCERTS FOR WINTER SUNDAYS

The municipal auditorium will be the scene of the first of a series of free Sunday afternoon concerts on November 21 at 3 o'clock. The announcement was made Tuesday by A. W. Jones, organizer and manager of the band that has been organized for the occasion.

John Sharpe is bandmaster and director of the band, which is made up entirely of local talent. The announcement of the free Sunday concerts carries the endorsement of many prominent Atlantans, who are interested in the movement.

The name of the organization sponsoring the concerts is the Atlanta Municipal Concert Band, and was born out of a desire to furnish entertainment for Atlantans on Sunday afternoons during the cold winter months, when out of doors amusements can not be enjoyed.

UNABLE TO WALK WITHOUT HELP

Now perfectly well after simple home treatment

All the way from Ireland, J. McKenna of St. Patrick's House, Kilmainham, Dublin, sends this report of a remarkably quick and complete recovery from an acute attack of sciatica.

"I was very bad with sciatica in my hips and legs and was unable to walk without assistance," he writes. "I took a friend's advice and got a bottle of Sloan's Liniment, and am now perfectly well."

Sloan's gets results because it doesn't just deaden the nerves. It helps the body to throw off the cause of the pain by stirring up the body's own curative powers.

ROAD BOARD ALLOTS ESTIMATED REVENUE

Estimated revenue of $3,000,000 from the state motor vehicle fund in 1927, was allotted Tuesday by the state highway board, according to John N. Holder, chairman.

A total of $2,900,000 of this estimated fund was allotted as follows: Maintenance, $1,080,000; general office, $180,000; signs, $240,000; surveys, $30,000; laboratory, $24,000; engineering, $200,000; shop, $18,000; emergency, $50,000, and general expense, $160,000.

LEVITZKI TO APPEAR HERE NOVEMBER 24

Mischa Levitzki, internationally famous pianist, will make his first Atlanta appearance on the night before Thanksgiving, November 24, at the Auditorium armory as one of the presentations of the Atlanta Music club in the civic concert series.

Levitzi, although he has never been considered a prodigy, has reached fame earlier than any living artist. It is said, Paderewski was 30 before his name flashed across the musical world of two continents, but not until he was 40 did he conquer a third, Australia. Josef Hofman became famous as a prodigy even before he reached his teens, but he did not become internationally known as a mature pianist until after he was 40 years old. Levitzki is only 27.

At 16 Levitzki made his first debut in Berlin and his later appearances have created sensation after sensation. By the time he reached 23 he had received the homage of Europe, America and Australia, and although he is only 27 years old, his fame has assumed world-wide proportions and he is in demand even in such far-off places as Java, India and Egypt, it is claimed.

The box office for the local concert will open Monday, November 22, at the Cable Piano company and continue open until the evening of the performance when it will be moved to the auditorium armory.

WARREN E. HALL BACK TO MAKE HOME HERE

After a residence of six years in Asheville, N. C., Warren E. Hall has returned to Atlanta to resume active work with his father, B. M. Hall, and his brother, B. M. Hall, Jr., as a member of the firm of B. M. Hall & Sons, civil and mining engineers.

The firm is a successor to the old firm of Hall brothers, organized here in 1880, and composed of the three brothers, B. M. Hall, James R. Hall and Max R. Hall.

Warren E. Hall was in France as a captain of engineers from January, 1918, to March, 1919, and went to North Carolina in 1920 as district engineer in the water resource division of the U. S. geological survey. Since resigning from that position he has been active in development work as secretary and treasurer of Western North Carolina, Incorporated, and as an engineer connected with Charles E. Wadwell & Co. He and his family will make Atlanta their permanent home.

TO BOND HANDLERS OF SCHOOL MONEY, BY BOARD ORDER

R. R. Ritchie, assistant superintendent of schools in charge of business affairs, will proceed at once to place all employees of the Atlanta public school system, including themselves, who are charged with the responsibility of handling funds or supplies of the schools, under bond. This decision was made definitely Tuesday afternoon by the board of education and Mr. Ritchie was instructed to proceed with the contracts with bonding companies.

It is estimated that 300 employees of the department will be affected and that the cost will be about $750.

THE PROBLEM:

What is the sum total of the figures forming the elephant? Simply add them up to get the solution.

There are no marks, lines or characters in the elephant except figures. These figures range from 2 to 9, each standing alone. There are no "ones" or "ciphers." There are no groups of figures such as "23" or "42." The heads of the "6's" are distinctly curved, while the tails of the "9's" are straight, or practically so. There is no trick or illusion of any description in the chart.

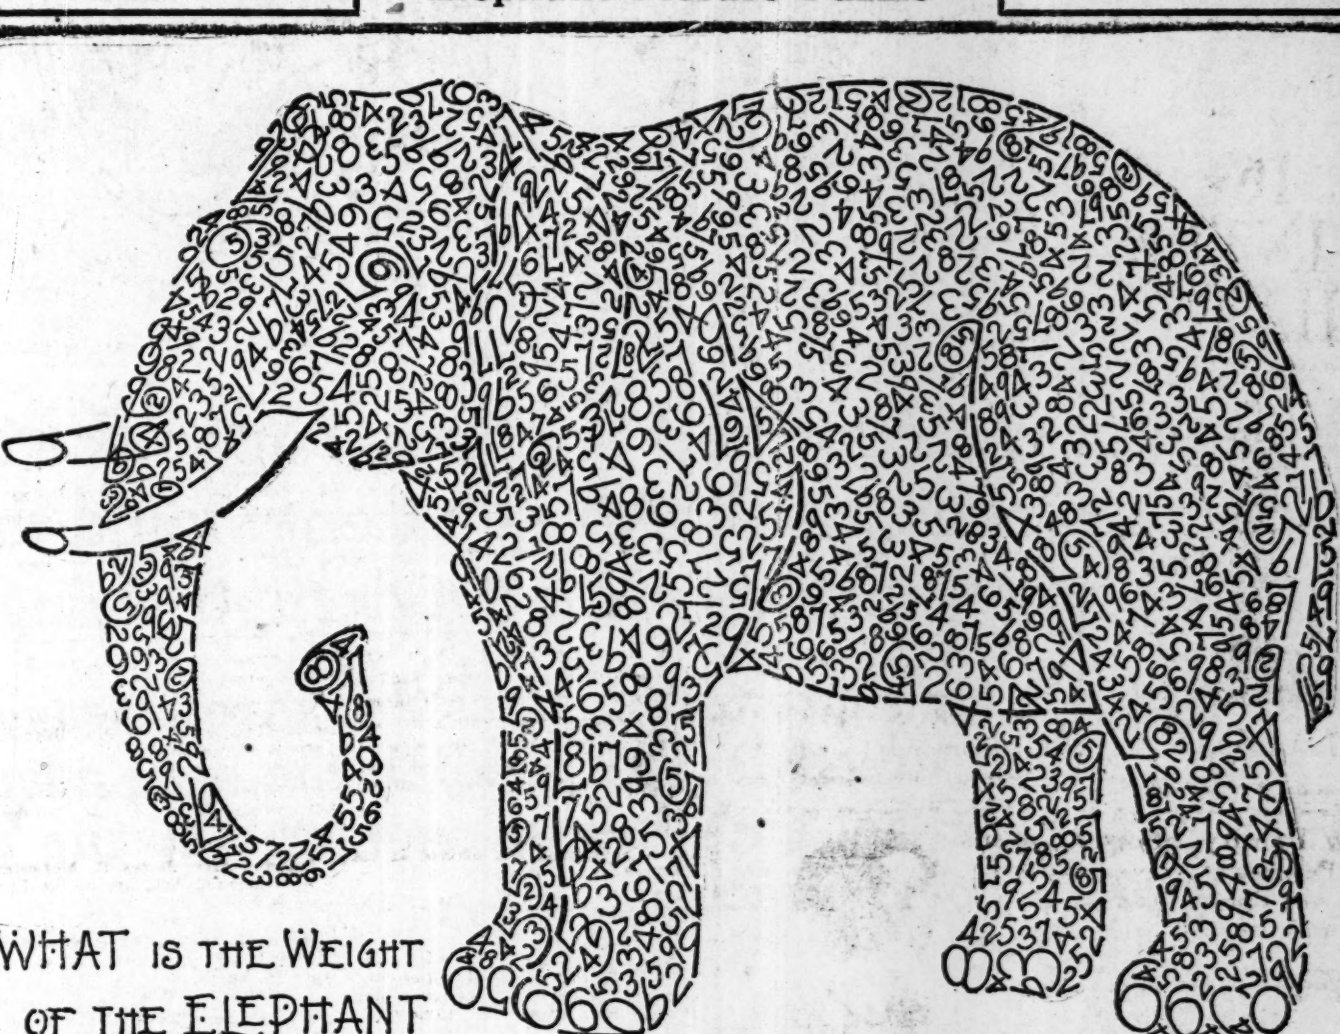

General Rules of The Contest

1. All bona fide residents of Georgia and adjoining states, meaning Alabama, Florida, North Carolina, South Carolina, east and middle Tennessee, may take part in this contest, except employees of The Atlanta Constitution, members of their families, and those who have won first and second awards in similar contest conducted by The Constitution.
2. Contestants may submit as many different solutions as they desire, provided payment of one of the four amounts designated in the award list shall accompany each solution, but no contestant will be permitted to win more than one award. (Once registered a solution cannot be changed.)
3. The Atlanta Constitution offers the awards for individual effort. While it is proper for members of one household to work together, or several friends, it is not permissible for more than one person working in union to send in a solution of the puzzle.
4. Only one award will be paid to any person, household, or group of persons working together. When in the judgment of the contest manager, more than one of any number of persons, or more than one of the family, or more than one of the household, is believed to have worked together, send in a solution of the puzzle, the right to refund the amount of money paid for subscription and return the solution if believed has been submitted contrary to the rules.
5. The Atlanta Constitution is to decide any questions which may arise and are not covered by the published rules, and those entering the contest agree to abide by such decisions and accept them as final and conclusive.
6. All solutions must be mailed or delivered to the Atlanta Constitution office on or before 9 o'clock Saturday, November 17, 1926. Solutions sent by mail bearing postmark of the date received, if received after 9 o'clock Saturday, November 17, 1926, will be accepted. This contest extends from Sunday, October 17, to and including Saturday, November 17, 1926. Five days will be given thereafter for those who have not fully qualified for the larger award to do so, after which no further qualifying remittances will be accepted.
6. In case of a tie, as many awards will be reserved as there are people tied. Before any awards are awarded, for less correct solutions another puzzle will be submitted to those tied. That is, if two or more people should tie on the "best" solution, the first two or more awards will be reserved for those tied. That is, if two or more people should tie on the "best" solution, the first two or more awards will be reserved for those tied. No Solution Can Be Changed After It Has Been Once Registered

IMPORTANT FACTS TO REMEMBER

While the amount you pay with a solution of the puzzle does not have any effect on your winning an award, it does affect the amount you will receive should you win one of the first nine awards, as the value of these awards is determined by what the winners pay. This is explained in the award list, which you should study carefully before sending in your solution.

The time a solution is received has no bearing upon its winning an award. Accuracy is what counts. Not more than one award will be awarded to any one person.

Who Pays Taxes

In this Community ~

Merchant
or
"Bell Ringer" ?

neither

F. MILLER

If the tax gatherer had to depend upon the itinerant peddler for out-of-town concerns, to what extent would this community enjoy the public improvements of a modern, thriving American city?

Who pays a large share of the taxes that give us paving and water; beautiful parkways, graded streets, schools and all the civic advantages that we enjoy? Is it the local merchant and business man, or is it the peripatetic salesman for "Bell Ringer's" Home Offices?

Ask yourself this question the next time a "Bell Ringer" or house-to-house canvasser calls upon you with an oily line of patter and a sample case under his arm.

To bring home to you the seriousness of the situation, it is only necessary to cite the fact that the prodigious sum of $900,000,000 was taken out of the cash registers of the retail merchants of the nation and given to the "Bell Ringer" establishments last year. The clothing industry alone was represented in this vast contribution to the home offices of the "Bell Ringers" by the tremendous sum of $77,000,000.

What is the reason for this amazing discrimination against the local merchant and in favor of the peddler? Is it that the "Bell Ringer" gives better values, better service, better merchandise at a lower price? The answer is decidedly NO!

One very potent reason for this situation is the extraordinary gullibility of the buying public. Nearly half a century ago the late P. T. Barnum of circus fame declared in all seriousness that the American people loved to be humbugged. Barnum was right then, and Barnum, if he lived today, apparently would have small cause to change his opinion.

Another reason for this "buy-it-abroad" policy, which is threatening the retail stores, is that the people who buy from the "Bell Ringers" do not stop to think what they are doing. No less a celebrity than Thomas Edison has implied that only two per cent of the people use their heads for much of anything besides a hat rack. If this is true, is there any wonder that the "Bell Ringer" thrives in the land?

Aside from the question of civic pride or loyalty to your local institutions, it is good business judgment and to your own best interests to buy the necessities of life from your home-town merchants, rather than from out-of-town peddlers. Dollar for dollar, you will get better values and enjoy greater economy in the end by trading at your local stores. You will also get better service and more courteous treatment. When you buy from a local merchant you know exactly what you are buying and from whom. You know a responsible, reliable firm stands behind the purchase, ready to make good if it proves unsatisfactory.

The often-heard arguments of the peddler that he can undersell local merchants on merchandise of equal quality, is pure, unadulterated BUNK. Your local merchant is a shrewd business man; he buys merchandise just as closely as it is possible to buy it and he sells it at the lowest margin of profit possible, in order to attract volume sales.

It is true, no doubt, that cheaply-made, shoddy, inferior merchandise can be sold and is sold from door to door at prices that seem lower than your local stores. But just stop and think before you buy this merchandise that in all probability it was made especially for peddling, manufactured expressly to provide big, tempting profits to the canvassers—big, quick returns to the home offices. Value, quality, are elements unknown to the purveyors of this type of merchandise. They expect to "sell you" ONCE and never expect to see you again.

Use your own judgment! THINK! Which is your friend? Who supports your local industries? Who is the heart and soul of the community? Upon whom does your prosperity very largely depend—

LOCAL MERCHANT, or "Bell Ringer"?

Black Butterflies

By ELIZABETH JORDAN

INSTALLMENT LI.
A BLUE MOMENT.

Out of their lives for all time, while they two, perhaps, lived their lives together. At the thought a pang went through Dorinda and her breath caught. David out of her life for all time! She tried to take in the thought and the effort brought to her the full realization of her dependence on him. She could not visualize a future that did not hold him. Even in what he had called her "spasms," even when she had so childishly fussed and sputtered and verbally regretted, she had always assumed that he was there to stay.

Yet how she had treated him! Looking back over the past two months she saw herself as she was, and with a distinctness that was staggering. She had snapped and whined and bullied; she had been unjust, tyrannical and unreasonable. In short—it all brought her back to it starting point she had already reached by subconscious realization—these things—she had been a fool. Now, she was to pay heavily for her folly.

Her first impulse after Norma left had been to return to her "spasms" and "wobbling," as the best and quickest way to untie the knot between them. But the sagacity and common sense in her, which were at such variance with the misconduct of the past two months warned her against this. The details of their separation, as the public saw them, would be hectic and horrible enough. She owed it to David to give him such peace and comfort, mental and physical, as she could.

He hesitated, and then, hearing a gulp, impulsively came forward.

in their last weeks together, and to conduct their private lives and private parting with dignity. They would need all the strength and courage they could store up to carry them through that divorce. Then David's friends would rally around him—she was beginning to realize how many he had—and he would swing into the serene current of his former life. The Black Butterflies, of course, would rally round her, but the prospect did not hearten her. It was the first time she had thought of the Butterflies in connection with the readjustment. She must get what comfort she could from the thought of them, for henceforth the Butterflies would be all she had.

She was crying now, heavily, agonizingly, and so absorbed in her misery that she did not hear a tap at the door leading from the hall, nor the opening of the door itself. David entered, staring uncertainly at the small figure buried in the big chair. He hesitated, and then, hearing a gulp, impulsively came forward. She turned, staring up at him with wet eyes, and he looked back in consternation. He had seen a woman cry only once during his life, and that had been his mother, weeping over the coffin of his baby sister when he was a child of four. The picture had always remained with him, adding a poignant touch to his natural masculine horror of feminine tears.

"Dorinda," he asked quickly, "what is it?"
"O, the blues—that's all." She drew a catching breath, sat up, and wiped her eyes with determination. "Norma's call wasn't very cheerful, you know," she added, "and she looked so wretched."
"I thought so," David replied, relieved by the explanation. He went on soberly. "But Judge Davis says she'll be all right, and by the way he spoke I know he meant it. I was afraid of something like tuberculosis, but he says it's nothing organic—just a nervous breakdown that she's almost over. A year abroad will make her as good as new. May I stay?" he added cheerfully, swinging a chair forward and dropping into it without waiting for the permission.

Dorinda looked at him curiously. His unconsciousness was as perfect as that of a small boy. If he had ever felt a dawning interest in Norma—and she now suspected that Norma was mistaken in thinking he had—it was clear that he had not the faintest suspicion of Norma's interest in him. She was touched, too, by his coming to her in that simple and natural way, and by the other fact that he had gone out into the hall and entered from there, instead of casually strolling in through her bedroom as she knew Chad or Jim would have done in the same conditions. David's taste in matters of conduct was always good. He rested his black head against the chair back and sighed.

"I'm as restless as a cat," he confessed. "Somehow I can't adapt myself to sitting around. I'm going downstairs tomorrow and, of course, I can get back to the office Monday. Thank the Lord it's my left arm that's out of commission and not my right," he added fervently.

"David," Dorinda asked abruptly, "have you ever been in love?"
He looked at her in surprise.

"I know you're not in love now," she went on, "because I asked you when we were talking about this plan of ours, and you said you weren't. But have you ever been?"

He shook his black head.
"Never, really," he confessed. "Of course I hoped I was, a few times. Naturally, I wanted to be. I suppose every man does. I'd admire a girl's hair or eyes, and get a little sentimental, but it never amounted to anything serious, and it was always over in a few weeks."
"Did you 'rush' the girl when that happened?"

He laughed.
"No, I always waited to see if it was the genuine article. It's a wonder I didn't have an affair or two," he went on, comfortably crossing his legs and leaning forward to clasp his left ankle with the well shaped right hand she had begun to watch. "They were going on all around me at the university, which is co-ed, you know, and a lot of fellows talked a good deal. What kept me out of it, I suppose, is that I had neither time nor money. I worked like a dog about eighteen hours a day, and I had to stretch every penny to cover my expenses. That sort of thing doesn't conduce to 'twosies,' you know. Have you ever been in love?"

He asked the question with a sudden straight look at her.

"Never—and I never shall. I have a horror of love."
"That isn't right," he said, with wise solemnity. "The fact that we've missed something big ourselves is no reason for slamming it."
"I suppose it isn't, but I've no use for love, just the same." She decided to experiment a little. "Haven't you ever seen a girl you thought you'd like to marry some day—a girl you knew pretty well—a girl like, well say like Norma, for instance?"

"Norma!" The word came out in spontaneous and unflattering surprise. "Norma," he thoughtfully repeated, and quite obviously for the first time, he gave his mind to Norma as a candidate for matrimony.
"Norma is a fine girl," he said at last. "She's one of the best. But somehow I never even thought of sentiment in connection with her. I don't believe many would. She's so practical and level-headed that she rather demoralizes romance. She's—I was going to say she's above that sort of thing, but of course that's nonsense. No one is above love when it really comes; and when it's the right thing I suppose it's a question of getting up on one's toes to reach it and be worthy of it, and all that," he interpolated, rather self-consciously; and returned with obvious relief to Norma. "Of course Norma will marry some day. And now that I think of it I can see just the sort of man she'll take—a quiet, steady, rather matter-of-fact fellow. She'll make him very comfortable and happy, but I rather think she'll care a whole lot more for her children than she will for him. Norma," he added complacently, pleased with his own insight, "is the strongly maternal type."
